Salvation Army
Message sent to thieves

By ERIN DOWNING

WILMINGTON - "They are taking the items away from people who need them. It is just a shame," said Salvation Army store Manager Carol Peters about the continuous theft occurring at their thrift store on Main Street in Wilmington.

As the manager of the Wilmington shop for five years, Peters stated that people have stolen bikes, sofas, televisions and clothing. "Anything you could imagine has been stolen from this store," said Peters.

According to Peters, the problem with people stealing stems from people leaving donated items outside the gates leading to the back over the weekend. She stresses that she tries to discourage people from leaving donations over the weekend. "Unfortunately, I don't receive many of the things people drop-off over the weekend because they are stolen," said Peters.

Salvation Army Regional Leader, Colonel Alan Thompson shares Peters concern that people stealing from the Salvation Army is an on-going problem. "I've been in this business for thirty years and it has always been a problem," said Thompson. "I've found that 99% of the people who steal want the items for their personal use."

At 3:00 p.m. on June 20, a reporter at the Town Crier witnessed a woman stealing a television located outside of the Wilmington store. The reporter notified the Wilmington police. The police then confiscated the TV from her vehicle at the scene of the crime.

Wilmington Police Inspector Thomas Miller confirmed that charges have been filed against the woman by the supervisors at the Salvation Army. "I filed the paper work today (June 23). The paperwork will go to Woburn District Court tomorrow. She is being charged with larceny," said Miller.

A hearing date will be set in two to three weeks, according to Miller.

Peters said that this is the first time a person has been caught stealing from the Wilmington store.

Thompson stated that the money made by the Salvation Army goes to the Salvation Army Rehabilitation Center. "It is a recovery program for the homeless and people addicted to drugs or alcohol. The program is self-supported by the donations people make to the Salvation Army," stated Thomson. "We have centers in Saugus, Brockton and Providence, R.I."

He said that people are ultimately stealing from people in need when they steal from the Salvation Army.

Employee contracts
O'Donnell's alleged violation to be discussed

By ERIN DOWNING

Wilmington-The issue surrounding School Superintendent Dr. Geraldine O'Donnell's alleged violation of the school system's policy on drafting employee contracts is expected to be discussed at a public hearing on June 24.

O'Donnell said the School Committee is considering disciplinary action against her for allegedly violating the school system's policy 6142.

The contract in discussion is the one signed by the new West Intermediate Principal Suzanne Garfield.

Garfield, who is the assistant principal of the Collins Middle School in Salem, MA, was hired by O'Donnell May 18. Garfield signed a three-year contract that will pay her $67,000 for 215 days a year. She begins her new job July 1.

Committee member Robert Young was also a finalist for the position. He is presently the principal of the East Middle School in Braintree.

Policy 6142 states, "The Wilmington School Committee adopts this policy that it must be provided with a copy, for its review, of the final employment contract between any managerial, administrative or supervisory employee and the Wilmington Public Schools, when such contract is negotiated and agreed

Population control
Canada geese targeted by control methods

By ERIN DOWNING

Wilmington - Have the geese in town been encroaching on your space? Do they appear to be multiplying in uncontrollable numbers? To help alleviate these problems, the Wilmington Board of Selectmen initiated a population control program this spring, according to Chairman of the Board Michael Newhouse.

One aspect of the aggressive program is the egg-shaking method. Rather than removing or breaking the goose eggs, biologists are carefully shaking the eggs found on town land to destroy the developing embryos. "If a person takes or crakes the eggs, the geese will just lay more eggs. Shaking and leaving the eggs keeps the geese from replacing them," explained Ellie Horwitz, a spokeswoman for the state Division of Fisheries and Wildlife.

Newhouse said the egg shaking is only one piece of the puzzle. "We're thinking about running a fence along the water line at Silver Lake," stated Newhouse. "We also use scare tactics, such as load noises. But, the egg shaking is the biggest control method."

Additionally, the town also passed an anti-feeding bylaw at the recent Town Meeting. A person can be fined $10 for feeding a goose or duck in Wilmington.

Newhouse said the geese problem was recently brought to the Board of Selectmen's attention at one of their meetings. Town Manager Michael Caira was then notified of the issue.

According to Wilmington's Public Health Director Gregory Erickson, Caira contacted him. "The Town Manager asked me if I could investigate a group of solutions to help with the problem," said Erickson. Around March, Erickson stated he contacted the US Department of Agriculture for technical assistance on the shaking program.

Horwitz said the state's resident Canada geese population, which are the geese residing in Wilmington, has significantly grown over the years. "Some people kept the geese as hunting decoys. The geese would Where's the title?

Friendship deal leads to disaster

By FRANK J. AMATO

WILMINGTON - A North Reading man's workplace friendship, turned sour when he purchased a new pick-up truck. His friend left him holding the bag.

Both men worked at a Wilmington trucking company.

Police have charged James Ventrillo, 36, who gave addresses in both Lowell and Dracut with larceny by false pretenses as a result of the incident.

According to Wilmington Police Inspector Dave Sugrue the victim, a North Reading resident negotiated with Ventrillo to purchase his 1997 Ford F350 pickup truck. The two agreed on a price of $20,000 for the vehicle which was considered a good deal by the victim. He gave Ventrillo a $500 deposit to hold the truck for him.

Two days later, the victim gave Ventrillo a bank check for $19,500. The two signed a bill of sale at that time. According to sources, Ventrillo told the victim that he would get the title in 3-5 days, after he paid off the note. The victim then took possession of the truck.

Several days later, the victim became concerned when he didn't get the title. At this time he found out that the plate on the vehicle was revoked, and the truck was uninsured.

Police have learned that Ventrillo had financed a trip to Florida with several friends after he received the bank check.

Ventrillo was arrested June 16th by Dracut Police upon his return from Florida on two outstanding warrants.

In a separate case, Ventrillo is also wanted by Tewksbury Police for Larceny by check in the amount of $5,000.

Ventrillo is due in Woburn District Court July 1st on the Wilmington charges.

Sugrue noted "They were friends and he trusted Ventrillo, he never thought anything like this would happen."

Tempers flare again over retirements

By SEAN DEVLIN

READING - Tempers flared Monday night as Reading's selectmen tried to reach an agreement with Reading Municipal Light Department commissioners regarding a pair of controversial retirement appeals for the department's top employees.

A state retirement appeals board recently ruled in favor of RMLD General Manager Leonard Rucker and Assistant Manager Richard Murch, allowing them retirement reclassifications that would move them from what is known as a Group 1 status, composed of mainly executive positions, to Group 4, which is reserved for employees whose work is considered arduous and hazardous. This shift in status will allow Rucker and Murch to retire at age 55 while receiving up to 80 percent of their base pay as part of retirement benefits. A third employee, Assistant Manager Vincent Cameron, is currently awaiting his ruling which is also expected to be favorable.

The issue came to light in 1995 when the Reading Retirement Board voted down the employees' request for reclassifications. As a result, the RMLD Board of Commissioners voted to challenge the decision which has since evolved into a lengthy and costly litigation process.

While Massachusetts General Laws state that the managers and

by Joyce Brisbois

HOW TO RETIRE

If you've contributed to an IRA over the years, it's probably grown to a significant sun. At 70 1/2, you have to start taking the money out. Choose the best method for your needs and make sure the custodian or trustee knows and will honor your choice.

Under the term-certain method, your first withdrawal is based on the joint life expectancy of owner and beneficiacy. After that, life expectancy is reduced by one each year. The tax advantage: payout can be spread out after the original owner and beneficiary die.

The recalculation method starts with the same fist withdrawal, but the joint life expectancy is recalculated each year before subsequent withdrawals. If the spouse beneficiary dies first, the owner must recalculate on his own life expectancy. The money will last longer and grow more, but at the owner's death--when life expectancy is zero-- a nonspousal beneficiary must pay tax on the whole thing at the end of the next year.

Choosing a much younger joint beneficiary -- a child or grandchild -- reduces the required annual payouts under both methods.

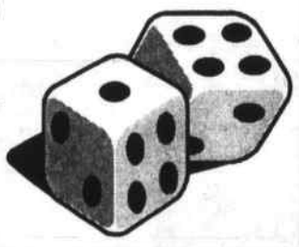

When you need a tax professional, you need the folks at:

Eulogy to Rocco DePasquale

WILMINGTON - Good morning: I am both honored and humbled to have been asked by Rocco's family to speak this morning. Like all of you, I am truly grateful to have had the opportunity to call this remarkable man, my friend.

Wilmington weeps today for one of its most beloved sons. A gallant and gracious leader, whose compassion for his fellow man was matched by his zest for life. The news of Rocco's passing stunned a community so accustomed to his integral role in the fabric of our town. I suspect that like me, each of you was immediately struck with a jolt of sadness followed by a flood of memories. - Embrace those memories. - Close your eyes and see the man with the broadest of smiles and the most expressive eyes. Listen to his distinctive voice. A voice of compassion and of common sense. Hear one of his inexhaustible array of jokes. Feel the presence of a man enveloped by the love of his family who returned that love a thousand fold, enormously proud of his children, sweetly captivated by Papa's seven little girls.

Rocco's family can take comfort in knowing what an extraordinary impact this man has had on the lives of so many.

Cardinal Cushing was fond of saying, "What a wonderful treasury of beautiful thoughts are found in that word friends." The genuine outpouring of affection, admiration and respect over these last few days provide great testimony to our friend and the wealth of friendship he enjoyed. Rocco was fiercely loyal to his friends. Generous to a fault, giving of his time, his energy, his money and his wise counsel freely, and without expectation. He was the Good Guy - setting the standard for all who followed.

Rocco was a man of many accomplishments. A businessman, a philanthropist, a civic leader, a community organizer. He was a man of ideas who dwelt in the possible. He saw a problem as a challenge, not as an obstacle. He was never content with sitting on the sidelines. The reason that he was such an effective leader was because he led by example.

He had an incredible outlook on life. Just 10 days ago, he motored into my office. We spent five minutes on business and about 35 minutes discussing everything from families to politics - although, upon reflection, in Wilmington sometimes families and politics are one and the same. During our visit, he dismissed his own health problems preferring instead to inquire about the well being of others. He told me he recently completed the transfer of the restaurant to the kids, noting with a twinkle in his eye that he still owned the property. He boasted of his grandchildren and he smiled broadly when announcing that Regina would soon being another beautiful baby into his life. He spoke fondly of an old friend that he just had lunch with, he lamented the recent passing of a nephew and not surprisingly he brought Rita into the conversation.

You perhaps knew or may have read of how Rocco met Rita while hitchhiking in Boston and rather fortuitously leaving behind in her car a cigarette lighter with his name on it - How convenient. - They got together, fell in love and Rocco took as his bride a beautiful Irish lass from Boston and together they raised five wonderful Italian children.

Monday evening, my wife, my parents and I visited Rocco's home to express our heartfelt sympathy to his children and their families. We were greeted first by a knock at the picture window and then a hello at the front entrance by a beautifully precocious three and a half year-old pixie named Courtney. She hugged us - showed us around - offered us food - pointed to photos - showed us her toys - she made us smile. Think about Rocco. Whenever you saw him, he greeted you warmly - Welcomed you into his life - offered you food - pointed to photos and he even showed you his toys - he made us smile.

The magical innocence of a child captured the essence of her grandfather's life. We are saddened, but today we celebrate his life. We toast his legacy of love and caring and thoughtfulness. We pay tribute to his ability to understand and to empathize. We salute his willingness to get involved. We marvel at his wondrous spirit - we smile in recollection of his good humor. If Rocco was an author most assuredly one of his books would be entitled - 10,001 Jokes, You've Heard Before - We remember the fishing trips and the fish stories. We remember Mr. Spumoni's and Maggie McKeever's. We remember the darts he threw winning stuffed animals and prizes at 4th of July carnivals for everyone's child. I remember, a man delivering on his promise of a pepperoni pizza to a frightened five year old boy upon his return from surgery and an extended and painful time in the hospital.

We stand in awe, inspired by his courage. The world "quit" was not a part of his vocabulary. Six years ago, time stood still for his family and friends. I vividly remember the vigilance of his loved ones gathered at the hospital. My own father, Rocco's friend of 40 years, was also in the hospital and as fate would have it, he lay in an adjoining room, separated only by a thin wall. I would break the rules of the ICU and peek in on Rocco while visiting my father.

He lay gravely ill, perilously close to death - all the medical experts who worked so hard to save him felt it was only a matter of time. But Rocco wasn't finished - he had too much to live for - too many people dependent upon his love. His indomitable spirit and the power of countless, constant prayers - oh so many prayers, proved that a higher power had a different plan in mind. I will always remember one of my visits as he lay recovering, slowly but bravely from his illness, literally engulfed by medical machinery. I looked at him as he rested and after a few moments he opened his eyes and smiled and in a barely audible whisper he said, "Hi Mike - how about a hug?."

Today Rocco is at peace - Rita has her Rock back. We are now responsible to do what Rocco did. To give meaning to our lives, to dream the greatest dreams - to seek the highest goals - to build the brightest tomorrows.

Rejoice in Rocco's life - be grateful that you were a part of it. Reach out and hug his spirit.

Rocco, we will miss you - we bid you farewell and my friend until we meet again we ask the Lord to raise you up on eagle's wings - bear you on the breath of dawn - make you to shine like the sun - and hold you - hold you in the palm of his hand.

Letter to the Editor

DePasquale Family grateful

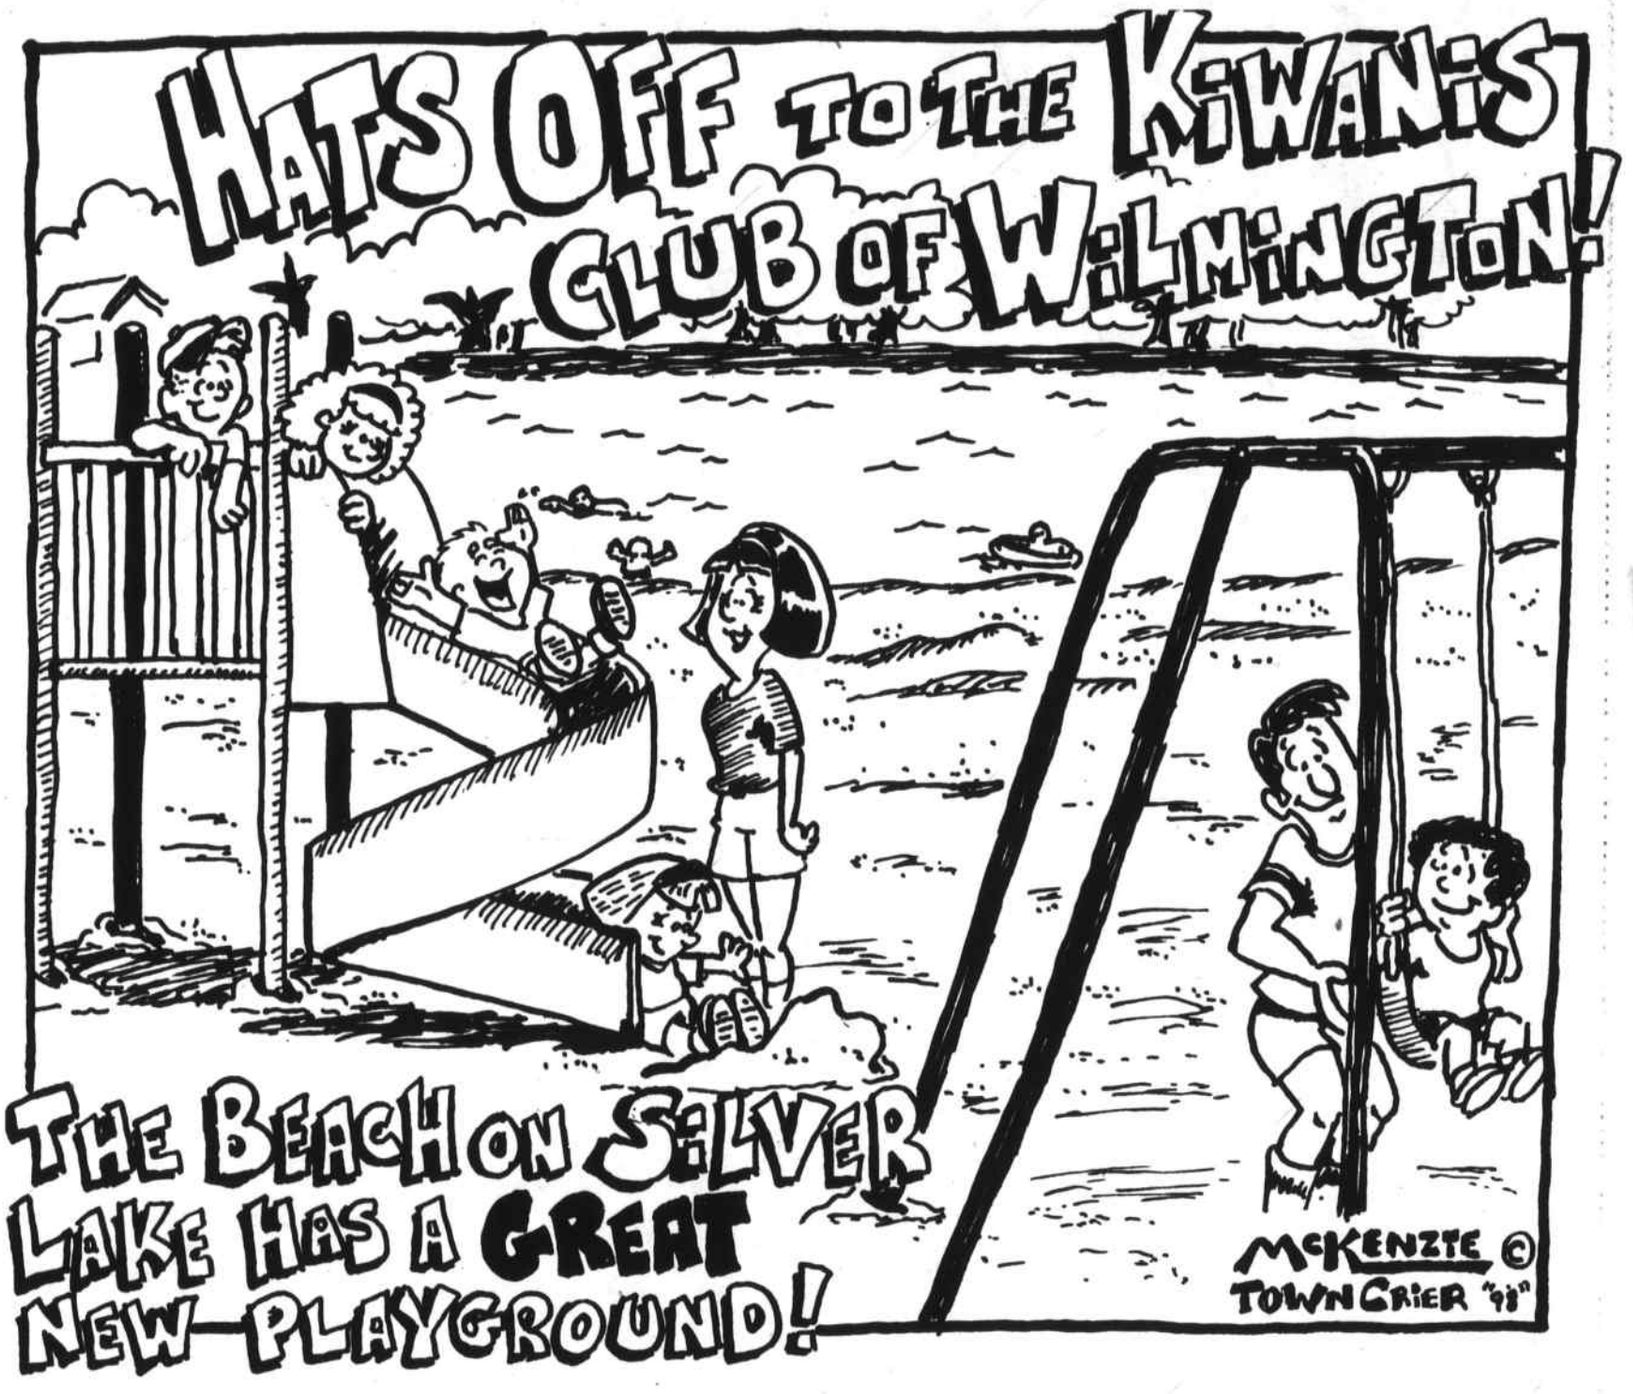

Dear Editor:

The family of Rocco DePasquale would like to extend their deepest thanks and appreciation to the Wilmington community for the outpouring of support we received during our time of loss.

A countless number of you called, stopped by, delivered food, sent cards and flowers, and prayed for us. During this most difficult time, it has been a great comfort for us to know how much our father was loved and respected.

With gratitude, we thank you.

Sincerely,
The DePasquale Family

Letters to the Editor

Kiwanis playground is a reality - Thanks!

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington, I would like to take this time to say thank you to a bunch of unsung heroes.

As many of you know, the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington started a playground project at Silver Lake Town Beach a little while back; well, I'm pleased to announce that it is now in the ground and ready for the kids of summer!

A "Board of Appreciation" is in the works to list all of the people and companies who donated money and materials. The major sponsors were Shea Concrete Products, Sons of Italy, Wilmington Rotary Club, Heffron Materials, RediMix Cement, Bobcat of Boston, Steve Wright of Wright Excavation, Tilton Home Improvement (Kiwanian), Karen Boeri (Kiwanian), Ken McCowan (Kiwanian), the Fudge's (Kiwanian), Beaulieu Electric (Kiwanian), The Wallents, Kevlin Corp., Altron Corp., Community Fund, and the Chamber of Commerce.

Along with the above sponsors, I'd like to say a few special thank you's to the following people:

The Board of Selectmen

Town Manager Mike Caira, retired DPW head, Bob Palmer and new DPW head Don Oneset for their guidance and assistance to make this project a reality.

Jimmy Rooney for the good swift kick I need to go forward.

All the DPW guys, the hardest working group I've ever seen.

Scott Dindo of SLD Associates. Scooter, I can't thank you enough!

The Wilmington Kiwanis Club members, unbelievable job guys! And last, but not least, I'd like to thank my dad for giving me the support and time I needed to see this project through. Thanks Pop!

Sincerely,
Rick Fudge, Chairman,
Playground Committee

I hope Michael Newhouse sticks with it

Dear Editor:

With respect to Representative Miceli's letter to the editor in last week's edition, I don't get it. From what I've followed in the newspapers, Rep. Miceli has said that he plans to run on his record, so I really don't see how Newhouse's challenging his record amounts to "name calling."

I hope Michael Newhouse sticks with it.

This does indeed seem like a bizarre event

Dear Editor:

I have just read an article in the Lowell Sun that discusses an executive session by the Wilmington School Committee in which a challenge will be made against Ms. Garfield's appointment.

The article states that the topic could be discussed at a Wednesday session. I would want to be there. Unfortunately, I have begun course work and one of the nights committed for it is Wednesday.

I am sending a copy of this letter to the School Committee chair. Your professionalism is obvious. While shopping at a local store, I was behind another customer in the check out line, who was a teacher at the West. She was describing in enthusiastic terms and with much excitement how much she enjoyed Ms. Garfield's introduction session to the staff. She continued that she was looking forward to her term as principal, describing Ms. Garfield as "sharp." I have it on good authority that the Salem system feels a serious loss with Ms. Garfield's termination.

The Committee needs to be reminded that one of the key facets of Ed Reform Legislation is the total hiring authority of each superintendent. This does indeed seem like a bizarre event. It seems to validate the importance of Mr. Young's resignation when he expressed his interest in working for the department as opposed to volunteering for it.

Sincerely,
Ann L. Yurek

Thank you for 911 response

Dear Editor:

I would appreciate it if you would publish this short letter commending the efforts of the Tewksbury firefighters, police offices, dispatchers, paramedics, EMTs, and all others who responded to a 911 call in the early morning of Friday, June 12 and aided our 15 month old baby boy during his and our time of need.

From the incredibly quick response time (less than five minutes) to the professionalism an caring displayed by all involved it was reassuring to know that help is really there when you truly need it. Again and on behalf of all of our families, please accept out thanks and appreciation for your efforts on our behalf.

I fully endorse Mr. Newhouse's Educational Plan

Dear Editor:

President Bill Clinton and Governor Paul Cellucci have both designated Education as their top priority.

More new teachers, infrastructure improvements, and improved access to technology have been promised. In reality, none of these promises have reached the Wilmington school system.

Our country and state boast of one of the strongest economies in recent times. The coffers of government are running well in the black. Yet, the commitment to our children's education is little more than rhetoric.

Our children have the opportunity to compete in a world wide economy, to communicate with the other side of the world almost instantaneously, to synthesize an explosion of information, and to act decisively through the electronic media.

However, unless we give them smaller student to teacher ratios in a well maintained, well lit, safe school, with up to date curriculum and technology, their dreams will not be realized, and our country will not maintain its global edge.

Mike Newhouse has listened to these concerns. His education plan deals directly with the need to increase financial support of our school system. He understands that Wilmington deserves to be recognized, not penalized, for the sound financial management of our town and school system.

Mr. Newhouse supported the building of a new school in Wilmington long before it was politically fashionable to do so. And, he has demonstrated his tangible support of the schools as a member of the Wilmington Educational Foundation.

I fully endorse Mr. Newhouse's Educational Plan; I believe that he has the energy and drive to bring education dollars home to our school system.

Sincerely,
Susanne Clarkin

A time of discoveries

By: MICHELLE LEE

As the fun-filled days of summer vacation quickly approach, I find myself excited about my few months of freedom. Of course, like my school year, it will be filled with many activities: days at the beach, pool parties, family vacations, college searches, and relaxation. Another activity that I look forward to all year long is my annual summer camp. Now, I can already hear the groans. You're probably thinking, "Summer camp?!?!" But I can assure you that this is no ordinary camp.

You see, for the past two summers, I have attended a summer leadership camp sponsored by the Massachusetts Association of Student Councils (MASC). This summer camp takes place at the Massachusetts Maritime Academy at Buzzard's Bay on Cape Cod. At this camp, over two hundred student leaders from all over the state come together for a week. And when the week is over, each student takes back with them something different. For me, camp is a week of discoveries.

First of all, I discover that there are student leaders out there who truly care. In a world where the delinquents and the "bad kids" make the front page news, I often forget that there are kids out there who truly want to make a difference in the world. At this camp, I meet many of these student leaders, which leads to my second discovery. You see, a student leader isn't always who you think he/she is. It's not always the person in charge of the prom, the class president, or the Student Council member. No, the student leader can be anybody. At this summer camp, I meet people of all different races, interests and hobbies. These student leaders are the athletes, the musicians, the artists, and the poets. These student leaders are like any student in any school in any town.

My third discovery is about friendships. At this summer camp, I have made and developed friendships with students from all over the state. Part of this camp, is a little activity called "Magic Notes." Each camper and counselor has a magic note bag in which little notes are dropped. Nobody is allowed to look into their bags until after camp. Well, among these magic notes are little tidbits of humor, famous quotes, poems, stories, word of advice, or just notes to say "Hi." Well, this past year, I received a poem from a friend. And as I read the poem, I realized that this poem reflected many of the friendships that I had developed at the camp over the years.

My final discovery is about myself. The time at this summer camp is a time where I can reflect about who I am, who I want to be, and the steps that I can take to get there. It is here that I set goals for myself to develop myself not only into a better student leader, but a better person. Here comes the important part. I write a letter to myself at this camp. I write not only about the powerful experience that I have just experienced, but about those goals that I had set. And when I get this letter in December, I am reminded of my final discovery and I remind myself who I am.

Every child wants to succeed and learn

by ANTHONY J. FERRARA
Family Therapist

I am constantly observing children who say one thing and mean something else. This is especially true with those children who say they don't care about learning, their lack of incentive being expressed in such remarks as: "I could care less; I'm just not interested; It bores me to death; I just don't want to."

I feel every child wants to learn because it opens the door to achievement, recognition, and approval which we all should have. On the other hand, it could mean failure, rejection, and disapproval. This is why you will find most times the greater the possibility of success, the more interest and involvement. If rejection continues, the child may never want to learn anything new.

One of the questions on our questionnaire is to rate whether your child's "Willingness to try new things" is Very Poor, Poor, Fair, Average, Good or Excellent." Most parents are usually confused because they find their child eager to try some things but flatly refuse to try others. In questioning hundreds of parents, I have found that in most cases the child's involvement depended on his belief that he could succeed. It would usually be in different categories. The poorly coordinated child would not attempt a new task involving good coordination, but would jump at the chance to try a new game involving comprehension or innovation. Of course, this was because he had experienced previous successes in these areas. On the other hand, the proficient athlete is eager to attempt new athletic involvement, because he knows he has what it takes. Once again, however, he has what it takes "not to fail."

This is why children must learn to fail with dignity, so that they may try new and necessary tasks. Give the child the same dignity we ask for ourselves. If shaming and forcing is not acceptable to you, don't pass it on to your child. If your child is having difficulty in school or if you are in charge of a class, close your eyes and try to mentally change places with a child. Now that you are pretending that you are a child, try to answer the following questions:

1. Would you like it if you were constantly corrected for every little task or endeavor which does not measure up to some predetermined goal?
2. Would the good intent of the instructor or loved one ease your pain?
3. How would you feel if your teachers and parents related to you mostly in your weakest area simply because they want to help?
4. Does the concern compensate for the drain of your dignity?
5. Does this concern inspire and motivate you to do better?

Obviously, all the questions earned negative responses. A child is seldom helped and it is not surprising, if he gives up altogether. Tragically, it seems that more children are being destroyed in the name of love and concern not only because they are being helped to death, but most of all, because they are not able to achieve and contribute. This is especially true of the learning disabled children. These children should not be looked upon or made to believe they are inadequate, causing them to feel they must change to become whole and meaningful. We may not do it with words, but we still project to them that they must be converted before becoming like us normal people.

We should always try to add dignity to a person who is trying to change. We must accept the person as a whole, which includes the disability. Once this happens, the person will usually have the necessary strength and incentive to start to change. We all know how uncomfortable, frustrating, and sometimes terrifying change can be, even for those who are making it.

This is why when teaching children something new or threatening we must move with care and understanding. Try to realize a child's reluctance to learn could be fear of failing. The child may be portraying defiance or indifference as a defense mechanism.

A good example would be in regard to a letter I received from one of my readers. It states: "Dear Mr. Ferrara, my eight year old son hates to read. He refuses to read aloud in school and will not read at home. This is a real problem, because of the homework assignments. It is causing a lot of disruption in our family. If it continues, my son will not make it in the academic world. I would appreciate any advice you may give."

In answering, this happens quite often to children who have had bad experiences in reading. Somewhere along the line the child has been turned off, and has shut down. Usually it's because he associates reading with failure, incompetence, or shame. This problem can intensify when this weak area is exposed to peers. I have had a number of clients who have skipped school or caused suspension to avoid reading aloud in class. This may seem extreme, but we are dealing with an issue of self-esteem. Unless the child can be motivated to read, all other efforts of threatening or punishing will usually fail.

A good beginning, to help your child, is to start writing notes to your child. First of all, be sure he knows the words you're using. Your notes should be rewarding and complementary. Example: Son, look under your pillow. I have a surprise for you. 2. Because you had such a good day we are going to eat out tonight. 3. I was very proud of you today when you helped your brother, Mike.

Even though the child may be troublesome, he does have those positive moments. Don't allow these moments to pass. Utilize them by complementing him with written notes. Reading can now begin to bring joy and acceptance, making a negative into positive. There are many more incentives and approaches that will be addressed in later articles.

College applications - complete with a stressball

Digging out from under

By: JENNIFER REALE

TEWKSBURY - Every day it is the same thing. I come home, check the mail, sort the mail, then stare at the largest pile. That of course is the pile of letters, pamphlets, posters, and applications from colleges, both far and near. I started to receive all of this great stuff about half way through my sophomore year, but it did not get bad until the past fall, when I began my junior year, and took my PSAT's for the second time. On the test, there is a box you can check to indicate that you would like colleges to send you information. You put your name and address, along with the major that you are most interested in.

I can understand that all of these schools are just trying to give students all of their options, and to get their name out there. But, isn't it a little overboard when I have a collection of Johnson and Wales applications that is bigger than my snowglobe collection I started when I was six? Some schools are worst than others. Some I only hear from once, then they get the point and leave me alone, but some are so persistent that I am actually tempted to mail their form back to them, just so I will stop receiving them. But, that would probably just encourage them.

One of the most annoying things about these letters is when they mess up your name or grade. I would be a sophomore receiving a letter telling me about how exciting my senior year must be. Well, I wouldn't know, would I? I was only a sophomore! They have the information in front of them, and they can't get it right, that does not instill my trust in them. Year after year, the same school would write to me, calling me a senior. Sophomore, junior, and probably senior year, too. Or maybe they won't send it next year, the one time they would have been right.

The things I receive in the mail daily from colleges are not just pamphlets or letters, though the majority of them are. I have received very unique items, maybe in an attempt to make the school stand out. Two examples are a stressball with the schools name on it and a big plastic cylinder. Inside was a poster like thing and all of the schools information, books, and pamphlets rolled up. In the middle was another , smaller cylinder, for me to mail back a reply if I was interested in the school. True, I found this quite amusing, and obviously it stands out in my mind, but it does not make me want to go to that school, nor does it mean I have the money to go to that school.

Which brings me to one last point, I have an idea for all of those schools that keep sending me stuff. Instead of spending so much money on postage, why don't they lower tuition instead?!? I think that everyone in the same situation as me would agree. Instead of charging outrageous prices for tuition, why don't they offset the prices with the charges of all the items they mail out. Honestly, it must cost a lot to design, print, and mail out all of that stuff. So, stop sending me all that stuff and lower your tuition, instead!

Correction

In the June 17 edition of the Town Crier, the article "Local company makes large donation" reported that Joseph Miara, with J.A. Miara Transportation, Inc., donated a $25,000 check to the Town of Wilmington Scholarship Fund. However, the donation was for $2,500. We apologize for any misunderstanding.

Wilmington Woods Nursing Center

Nurse pleads innocent to abuses

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — A nurse's aide has pleaded innocent to charges she abused five elderly nursing home residents, including one whom she allegedly forced to eat her own feces.

Stacy H. Arruda, 25, of Derry, N.H., was freed without having to post bail after pleading innocent Tuesday in Middlesex Superior Court to two counts of elder abuse and seven counts of patient abuse.

She must report twice a week to a probation officer. If she fails to do so, she'll be forced to pay a $5,000 fine.

Prosecutors said witnesses saw Arruda assaulting five residents — all above the age of 80 and suffering from dementia or Alzheimer's disease — of the Wilmington Woods Nursing Center seven times between October 1997 and February 1998.

One witness said she saw Arruda force an 83-year-old female patient to eat her own feces, prosecutors said. Arruda then allegedly used a towel to wipe the corners of the woman's mouth.

Another witness reported seeing her kick and stomp on the crotch of an 81-year-old woman, causing severe bruising. Arruda then allegedly slapped the patient in the head and violently kicked her in the shins, according to witness testimony.

She also is accused of spitting in the face of a 92-year-old patient and pulling the hair of an 86-year-old patient.

Arruda was dismissed from the nursing home in February after officials learned of the alleged abuse.

If convicted, she faces up to five years in jail for each of the counts of elder abuse and two years in jail for each of the patient abuse. She also faces up to $37,000 in fines.

Stacey H. Arruda, 25, of Derry, N.H., right, a former nurse's aide at the Wilmington Woods Nursing Center in Wilmington, appeared Tuesday, June 23, 1998, in Middlesex Superior Court in Cambridge during her arraignment on charges of allegedly abusing five elderly nursing home patients. Arruda pleaded innocent to the charges and was released on $5,000 surety. Arruda's attorney Henry Hyder is seen at left.

O'Donnell's alledged violations upon by the principal and/or the Superintendent. The copy should be provided in the School Committee package for the School Committee meeting prior to the date when the contract is to be executed."

According to committee member Thomas Siracusa, O'Donnell never gave the board a copy of the final draft of the contract she offered Garfield. "We received a draft version of the contract. From my discussions with O'Donnell, she was not aware we were looking for a final version," said Siracusa. "The salary amount and Garfield's signature were not in the draft version."

Siracusa noted that the committee did not expect Garfield's signature to be on the draft version.

He stated that the committee gave O'Donnell a salary range to work under, which she did. But, they never saw the final figure.

O'Donnell stated that when the contract's draft version was presented to the committee, she explained to them that she was doing it in accordance with the policy. "They (the committee) voted on the salary range. They received a final copy of the contract when she (Garfield) signed it," said O'Donnell.

However, O'Donnell confirmed that the committee did not receive a copy of the final contract until their meeting on May 27, after the date the contract was signed by Garfield.

O'Donnell stated that Garfield was a finalist in four towns. "I had to make an offer to Garfield to secure the position," said O'Donnell.

Under the advisement of her attorney, O'Donnell said she choose to have the matter discussed in an open session at the next School Committee meeting June 24.

The state Open Meeting Law states that executive session can be held to consider the discipline of a public official. But, the meeting may be held in open session if the individual involved requests that the meeting be open.

Siracusa said the committee will wait until the June 24 meeting to figure out the issue.

RMLD

Retirement status at issue

assistant managers who supervise linemen and other hazardous positions are included in the Group 4 classification, officials in the department's service area, including Wilmington, have questioned whether the three individuals fit into the hazardous classification.

"As I'm listening to a justification for placing a general manager into a category for hazardous duty, I'm just not understanding that," said Reading Selectman Bruce MacDonald. "The common sense understanding of Group 4 is hazardous duty. This may be, in my view, a misapplication of the choice you had."

Bill Burditt, secretary of the RMLD board, told the selectmen that he didn't see why the local retirement board had questioned the reclassification request when "it's clearly within the law."

"I don't know what's confusing with that and why we had to go this far," said Burditt.

In addition to the state laws, RMLD officials have also supported their case by saying that offering such retirement reclassifications would encourage some employees in the hazardous work category to accept promotions into supervisor positions that had been refused in the past for fear of losing Group 4 benefits. RMLD Board of Commissioners Chairman Philip Pacino had also stated previously that besides making employees less reluctant to accept any promotions, the reclassifications would assist in attracting more qualified candidates for employment in the department.

"When you tell me that it means so much in a deregulated market to have that, it's an invalid reason. You're trying to tell me that beyond Reading Light there are no qualified people that are willing to come to run a department. That's hard for me to believe," said RMLD Citizen Advisory Board member Roger Lessard, adding that there are other alternatives to compensate employees.

More so, the communities have been concerned with the issue of the cost of the executive's legal defense bills totaling $128,855, which have been fixed into RMLD's operational budget and will be paid by the communities' ratepayers according to the decision rendered at Monday's meeting.

Bill Hughes, who is an RMLD commissioner and former employee, said that while he believes that Rucker and the others have a right to appeal the decision rendered by the town's retirement board, the cost should not of their personal appeals should not fall on the utility's customers.

"I as a ratepayer refuse to pay legal fees of a decision rendered to benefit the general manager and assistant managers," said Hughes. "This is totally wrong."

Lessard, who represents Wilmington, said that he also believes that customers should not be held responsible for financing the defenses.

"My feeling is very strong that the ratepayers from any of these communities shouldn't pay for this," said Lessard, adding that there should have been more discussion before the issue reached the litigation stage.

Wilmington Selectman James Rooney, who has voiced opposition to the utility's decisions regarding the reclassifications, backed Lessard at the meeting.

"In Wilmington, we are really concerned about this," said Rooney, prior to the 3-0 vote taken with two commissioners abstaining. "This will continue to be uppermost in our minds. Should individuals be able to use ratepayers' money? That is the question."

As part of the vote taken, RMLD requires that the Reading Retirement Board not pursue its final chance to appeal the latest decision. According to a letter from the retirement board read by Reading officials, the board has no intention of taking the issue any further.

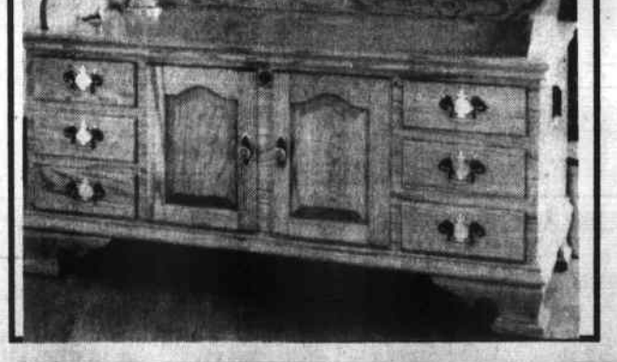

"I do not, at any point, intend to reduce that payment," said Pacino. "But if the Reading Retirement Board intends to appeal, then we would suggest that we go back to step one."

Echoing Thompson's sentiments, Peters stated, "Sometimes people's attitude is that they are only taking donated items. But, people don't realize that the money we make from the donations goes to those who need assistance, such as the rehabilitation center," said Peters. "Our prices are very reasonable here. There is no need to steal."

Shawsheen Tech graduate achieving excellence

By ERIN DOWNING

TEWKSBURY - 18-year-old Bonni Dalton is setting a good example for Shawsheen Valley Technical High School students.

The Tewksbury resident graduated from Shawsheen Tech a month ago second in her class of 248. Dalton successfully balanced academics, work, sports and volunteering as a peer leader during her high school career.

Dalton worked alternate weeks in her senior year at InterLink Business Solutions in Wilmington, designing web pages. She participated in track, cross-country and swimming all four years in high school. In her senior year, Dalton was elected captain of each of the coed teams.

According to Dalton, the cross-country team went undefeated for the four years, winning successive Commonwealth Athletic Conference titles. "The cross-country team did really well. They always do," said Dalton.

In swimming, the girls won the league title this year. Dalton swam the 500-yard freestyle. Her track events were the mile and triple jump.

She wrapped-up her high school athletic accomplishments on June 11, receiving the Most Valuable Player award for cross-country and swimming.

Dalton believes that juggling school work and sports helped her succeed in both. "It was actually easier for me. I got out all my stress from the day in sports. It's like I had two different lives," said Dalton. "Sports helped me relax and stop thinking about books for a little bit. When I was doing my school work, I could concentrate on it because I had relieved all my stress."

Bonni Dalton

If her achievements in sports were not enough to impress a person, Dalton is also the Massachusetts gold medalist in extemporaneous speaking. "At competition, they gave me a topic and a few questions with the topic. I had five minutes to think of something to say about the topic. Then, I gave a three to five minute speech before a panel of five to six judges. Once it was over, I was nervous for the rest of the day," joked Dalton.

Her topic at the state competition was "Achieving new heights." "I did a story about running with Tewksbury High School's cross-county team when I was in sixth grade. I spoke about how I learned team work. I talked about how to learn from people who beat you and good sportsmanship," said Dalton.

She is competing June 22-26 in Kansas City for the national championship sponsored by the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, VICA.

During the 10-12 grades, Dalton was a peer leader, serving as a big sister and tutor to students at the Shawsheen Elementary School in Wilmington. "Being a peer leader is not so much what a person does. It's more about what a person represents," stated Dalton.

In 1996, she and another sophomore represented Shawsheen Tech at the statewide Hugh O'Brien Youth leadership conference.

She also volunteers at the House of Hope, a Lowell shelter for women and children, every Sunday for three hours. "I clean the bathrooms. I do the laundry and play with the kids. Mostly, I do house keeping work," said Dalton. "It's nice to see a smile on people's faces, even though it's just a little thing. They really seem to appreciate it."

Dalton will attend Salem State College on a full scholarship. Her goal is to become an English teacher. She said her high school English teachers, Mrs. Mello and Mrs. Marquis, have influenced her. "They seem to really like their jobs and enjoy what they do," stated Dalton.

She also has her sights set on joining Salem State's cross-county team.

10th annual ice cream social Saturday

TEWKSBURY - The 10th annual ice cream social sponsored by Tewksbury's Friends of the Library organization will take place Saturday, June 27 from noon to 4 p.m., as part of Family Fun Day at the Library.

A variety of toppings will be available to make customized ice cream sundaes from 1 to 3 p.m.

Providing entertainment for the event will be local performer Beverly Granoff, who will bring her guitar for a fun- filled sing-a-long. Artist Diane Rice will be creating comical animals and other fantastic shapes with her balloon wizardry. Face painting, games and surprises will also be available.

There will be a special performance by Henry the Juggler, whose appearance at the event is sponsored by the Tewksbury Cultural Council, a local agency supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council.

This is an event for the entire family. Take lawn chairs or a quilt to throw on the ground while you relax and take in the happenings. Go early with a picnic lunch, browse the library to pick up books and videos, then join in on the lawn for dessert.

This annual event is a major source of funding for the many contributions that the Friends of the Library make each year to improve library services, including the Museum Pass Program and summer arts and crafts for children.

Wilmington Library Notes

Mystery festival

WILMINGTON - Threat of thunderstorms moved the Library Mystery Festival indoors on Thursday evening. From six to eight o'clock, hundreds of people went to the library. On the first floor, registration tables were set up where staff and volunteers signed up 277 children for the Summer Reading Club. After children received their "Detective Notebooks." they proceeded to a table where they were "officially" fingerprinted and then entered the free drawing for prizes. In the Children's Room on the second floor, children enjoyed making colorful mystery masks. In the hallway the Friends of the Library served punch and doughnuts to guests as they entered the library conference room for the featured performances.

Diane Edgecomb, a professional storyteller, entertained the audience with "The Mystery of the Missing Duckbill Dinosaur Eggs" and other tales. Then Kevin Devine's Musical Circus delighted the children who sang and danced along to the music. Both parents and children laughed at the tricks and antics of "Slick the Clown." These two performances were funded by the Massachusetts Department of Education through the "Community Partnerships for Children" grant.

Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson arrived in a purple Rolls Royce driven by chauffeur Gordon Anderson of Lynette's Limousine. This duo wandered throughout the library looking for mysteries to solve and handing mystery stickers to children.

Thank you to the following for support and donations to the Library Mystery Festival:

Friends of the Library for providing volunteer help, program supplies, and prizes;

Larry and Marion Cushing, Inc. and Custom Stitch for prizes;

Dunkin' Donuts and Wilmington Burger King for refreshments;

Papa Gino's for the Sherlock Holmes costume;

Lynette's Limousine for the use of the Rolls Royce;

Rapid Reproduction for printing of the "Detective's Notebooks."

Special thanks to the Public Buildings Department staff for their help and to Police Officer Bobby Shelley for directing the traffic.

Geese population control be used to attract the migratory geese that were hunted. A law was passed in the late 1930's, prohibiting the use of live waterfowl decoys in the state. When the birds were released, they didn't migrate," said Horwitz.

Tom Early, a biologist with the Division of Fisheries and Wildlife, stated that Wilmington provides the birds with the ideal habitat. "With the golf courses and complexes that have ponds and large open areas, they have no reason to leave," joked Early. "Some of the birds die from predators or being hunted. Most of the eastern part of the state prohibits hunting and they have no predators in Wilmington. They have the perfect conditions here."

He estimated the resident geese population in Massachusetts to be between 35,000 to 40,000.

"The growing population of the birds is a problem all up and down the east coast," noted Horwitz.

The effectiveness of the program will be measured this summer once the nesting season concludes. But, Newhouse stated that the contract only covers town-owned property. Wilmington's payment to USDA for the egg-shaking program is not to exceed $4,500, according to Newhouse.

Because the program must be conducted each year to have long-term effects, Newhouse stated that the contract includes having town personnel trained to continue this particular method in the following years.

While the town is awaiting the results of the shaking program, some people are skeptical of its effectiveness. Among those people is Early. "I believe that it is not going to reduce the population. The program will only slow down the growth of population," said Early. "The most effective way to reduce the population is hunting. But, shotgun hunting is prohibited in Wilmington"

Horwitz noted a problem that the town may face as a result of the method. "Geese from other towns may come to Wilmington because of the open area created by the lack of geese," said Horwitz.

Erickson stated that they are waiting for the results to evaluate what will be done next year. "It is too early to tell at this point if the program will have an impact," said Erickson.

Eastern Mass Final

Baseball team's offense Stang-less

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

With about 20 innings of experience combined from their battery, the Wilmington High baseball team was still considered inexperienced, and obviously the underdogs. And yet, when it was all done, it was those underdogs who were considered just that all season long, to be standing, smiling at their own dugout knowing what they had accomplished will be remembered throughout their lives.

Somehow after the season's first two games were chalked up as miserable losses, the team climbed out of the cellar and into stardom instantly. No one really knows how and why they did it, they just did. But somewhere in-between those two losses and last Thursday's loss in the Division III Eastern Mass. finals, this one program has certainly revitalized male sports in Wilmington as it so desperately needed to be.

Although the score indicates that Wilmington lost, the 5-1 score indicates that their opponent, Bishop Stang, had the game throughout. That wasn't the case at all. Wilmington was always in the game. In either case they faced a much better all-around team, who two days later, celebrated on the mound of Fenway Park as the state champions. Wilmington was never suppose to break the .500 mark, nevermind get into state tournament play and nevermind be in contention of a state title game. All of that certainly goes along way, just like they did.

"I never expected this," said head coach Dick Scanlon. "I'm very pleased with the season and [Thursday's] game. We just didn't hit and we faced a great ball club. We have no regrets."

Prior to the game Scanlon made a difficult decision. Instead of going with senior southpaw Paul Fugere (3-5), he went to sophomore Sean Quigley (1-1). Scanlon said he wanted Quigley to give them three or four good innings and then turn the ball over to Fugere who is more effective as a reliever. The last time Quigley had pitched was a six inning masterful job against a Division II powerhouse in Reading. This time Quigley had to do what makes him so effective: keep the ball low.

After an hour delay (field maintenance delay because there was no fixtures for the field after it had been raining all week and that entire day) the game begun at Alumni

Who would've thought this?

BY JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It was just a few months ago when Wilmington High baseball coach Dick Scanlon discussed his pre-season thoughts on his young team. The team was coming off a productive, yet disappointing season when it lost in the second round of the state tournament. They had lost 11 seniors including arguably the best up the middle defense it has ever assembled from catcher Rich Gillis to the middle tandem of Eric Clancy and Billy Harrison to center field with Eric McKenna. They also had some kid named Sean Kerrigan and a number one pitcher in Lee Trimarchi, who if was on, couldn't be beaten.

There were so many questions going into this season. Starting on the mound Scanlon knew that he has Scott Swiezynski, a tall, lanky pitcher with a good fastball, but sometimes lacked control. Scanlon knew that the kid would be his ace, especially since he could toss a lot of innings. From there he had another senior Paul Fugere who was superb in relief from a season ago, going 4-0. Then he knew he had these twins – whether or not he could tell them apart, referring them to the "lefty" and the "righty" – Pat and Mike Heffernan - he knew they could throw hard, play the game, but other than that he wasn't sure how quick they could or would settle in. After that he had two other seniors in Ryan Harrison and Brian McCarthy that he counted on for relief help.

Then he turned to catcher. A huge question mark lingered there. Matt Meuse, another senior like Harrison and McCarthy, was there. He split his time with the big club and the jvs and going into the season it was thought that he was okay, but needed a lot of work. Then there was a sophomore named Erik Banda and all he did was come off two tremendous seasons in football and hockey. He was tough, talented, but very raw.

The infield was a mess - especially the left side. With Kerrigan and Harrison gone, Scanlon wasn't sure what would happen. He had Peter Grasso, a smooth fielder, contact hitter who made the team as a freshman as a middle infielder, but he sat out his sophomore season

McCarthy never "skipped" a beat during playoffs

By JEFF NAZZARO

The 1998 edition of the Wilmington High baseball team rode a long way on that intangible of hardball intangibles: chemistry. With a nucleus of senior veterans backstopped by upperclassmen seeing their first real varsity action and hungry underclassmen itching to get theirs, Dick Scanlon's Wildcats made it all the way to the Div. 3 EMass Final on heart, grit, the right arm of Scott Swiezynski, and yes, that sweet chemistry.

Beyond the ace righty, it was a lot of "little" guys stirring the pot that got the 'Cats to the final, a game away from a living dream at Fenway Park. And there were none bigger than Brian McCarthy.

Playing right field and batting far down in the order, the gregarious senior contributed in every game both offensively and defensively, while always being the guy that every coach loves to have "in the clubhouse."

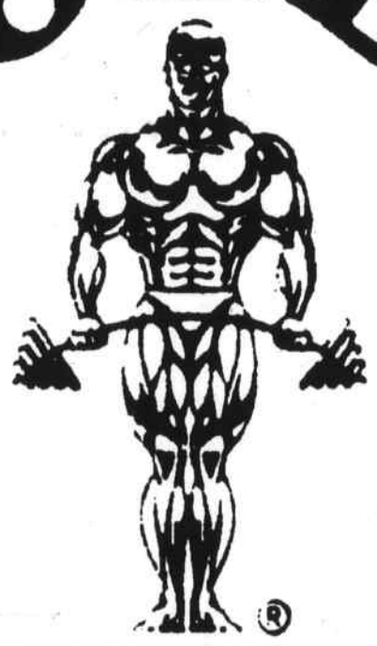

When the ride came to an end last Thursday at Alumni Field in Lowell-the culprits an excellent Bishop Stang Spartans squad-McCarthy held the proper perspective on a season that outstripped everyone's expectations.

"We weren't really expecting to go this far," he said. "We kept fighting and coming from behind. That's the kind of team we were. Too bad we couldn't do it today."

McCarthy, who batted .333 with a .571 on-base percentage for the state tournament, embodied the Wildcats' fighting spirit. With two outs in the bottom of the seventh against Stang and his team trailing 5-1, McCarthy lashed a single to

Shriner's football game a success

BY Jamie Pote
Sports Editor

Bob Almeida, Jamie Campbell, Ralph Perrotti and Dave Shunamon assured themselves of a perfect 3-for-3 night, except wrong sport. They all helped raise money for needy children, they all had fun doing just that, showing off their talents coaching and playing a game of football and the team they were on won - not a bad night's work.

Almeida was one of the coaches for the North team who consisted of the better senior football players from that side of the state including Campbell the Wilmington native and Perrotti and Shunamon both of Tewksbury. This past Saturday night, the foursome played in front of 7,000 people at Boston University's Nickerson Field to in the Shriner's Football Classic, rasing money for the Shriner's Hospital to benefit needy children. The North squad beat their rivals from the South, 28-15.

I had a blast, it was so much," said Campbell who was the runner-up for the team's MVP award as a linebacker. "I was wicked nervous before it started, I couldn't wait to play."

Almeida said Campbell stole the show. "He made two huge tackles I mean that rocked BU's stadium. Both of them were huge plays, on a third down play and the other a fourth down play that fell short of what could have been two huge first downs. On both plays the quarterback was running with the ball and both times Jamie drilled him and sent him back several yards, they were both picture perfect tackles."

Shunamon also played linebacker and Almeida said he did fine there as did Perrotti as the center and long snapper. "He's the best long snapper I have ever seen in high school football," Almeida said.

Perrotti on the game, "It really didn't hit me until I got there, then I was ready and I knew it was time to play. I had a lot of fun, it was a good time, especially winning."

One thing the three of them commented on was not knowing how much of a rival game this is.

"It was rewarding and special to be a part of this, but wow was it heated, I never knew it was like what it was," Almeida said.

Wilmington Boys 9A Soccer team crowned champions

The Wilmington boys 9A travel soccer team walked away with a championship trophy in the Commissioner's Cup Tournament after a double overtime final game to cap off an outstanding winning season.

After a 9-0-1 winning season, earning them the right to play in the prestigious Commissioners' Cup Tournament, the team played three pressure cooker qualifying games against Reading, Woburn and Wakefield, winning enough points to place them in the final championship game.

Highlights from the first three games included a spectacular goal by Rich Barry in the opening game gainst Reading. Barry played quality soccer throughout the tournament using his spectacular speed to continually out play the opposition. His sole goal was enough to give Wilmington the much needed first win to keep the championship hopes alive.

The second game of the tournament Shawn Foley gave Wilmington its only goal off an unbelievable corner kick. Foley's spectacular shot fired over and around everyone on the field and was perfectly placed in the goal. Despite outstanding team play, Wilmington lost 2-1 to Woburn.

On the second day of tournament action, Wilmington knew they were in a must win situation as they took the field against Wakefield. Without this win their championship hopes were over. The team came out anxious to set the tone of the game and controlled the ball effectively. Shane Foley put Wilmington's first goal in net after counted to stop several all out Woburn attacks on net and getting the ball back to Wilmington's offense. Derek Derosa did his jbo on defense throughout the game as well beating out several Woburn offenders time and time again.

At the end of regulation play the game was scoreless. A 10 minute overtime was played which at the whistle was again scoreless. The teams battled for a second 10 minute overtime and again neither team was able to connect despite some aggressvie play. As the double overtime whistle blew the teams were named co-champions both earning the right to claim victory for the Commissioner's Cup.

The championshp game against Woburn was a classic battle of two quality teams. Wilmington was playing hard to get the win. Brendan Sheehan in goal for the Wildcats was more than spectacular using every part of his body to protect the goal. He let nothing by despite a constant scoring threat. He kept his focus and kept the opposition scoreless. The Woburn team was clearly flustered by their inability to beat Sheehan in goal.

On offense for Wilmington Timmy Kent and Josh Mayo set up some beautiful passing plays for the Wildcats which neatly connectred several times. They never gave up on any play. Brendan DeMango battled to keep possession of the ball for Wilmington multiple times consistently keeping the pressure on Woburn. Dana Steenbruggen displayed some textbook moves using his speed and skills to effectively move the ball to the goal and nearly beat the goalie ons everal attempts. Shane Foley continued to do his part to control the ball throughout the setting up several beautiful attempts on goal.

Woburn was not without its own all out offensive atacks. They were kept in check, however, by great defensive play by the Wilmington team. Brian Johnson was spectacular in the game at attacking the ball and clearing it from the net. Zach Church and Greg Stewart exhibited their own defensive skills against a hard charging Woburn team both making key plays when it really he skillfully brought the ball down the field weaving in and out of everyone in his way. Rich Barry delivered Wilmington's second goal off a great pass from Timmy Kent. When the whistle blew Wilmington claimed the 2-0 victory and the right to play for the Tournament Cup.

Who would've thought this?

due to an injury. Third base he had Harrison and second base was another question mark. The two candidates there were junior Jim O'Donnell and sophomore Mike Heffernan. O'Donnell, at the time was thought to be slow, a decent fielder with some pop on his bat. Heffernan was raw, with a ton of ability.

Tim Gillis was the lone outfield starter to be returning and it was thought at the time he would be joined with Dan Sweet, a junior with a promising future, but he chose track instead. As for the other options, he had Dave DeAmato, a junior, who had a reputation for hitting the ball a long way, but struck out too often.

That was the team, that was the pre-season thoughts.

So in a nutshell, he had a few experienced pitchers, and a center fielder. Everyone else was pretty much brand new, needing game experience badly.

First two games....Ugh, two losses. First one against Tewksbury was miserable, Wilmington's defense coughed up a sizeable lead and it was then that everyone thought that winning 6-8 games in the Cape Ann League would be very tough, considering that league, this season, was considered the best around.

After those first two losses, slowly the team started to play better, they beat a few sub-par teams and the confidence started to grow. Swiza was throwing very well, and the rest of the team was still young. With about five games in hand, the infield play was really turning around. Grasso, who was brutal to be honest in the first game (but who could blame him after not playing the game for a year), started to get the feel back and he and O'Donnell were looking as if they had been playing together for the past ten years. They had, they looked superb, showing off tremendous range, turning the double play with ease and turning many of them, early and often. And when a team gets that kind of up the middle defense, it certainly gives any pitcher a huge boost in confidence which is what all of them – Swiza, Fugere and the two Heffernans – needed at that stage.

Now came the half way point in the season. Still Swiza was on target (hum baby), just in time as the bats really started to come alive. O'Donnell and DeAmato really came out of nowhere and were belting the ball. Grasso and Gillis always known to be great hitters, were also doing there part and the top of the order were really doing some damage. Add to that, a tall senior that always seemed to go unnoticed. His name was Ryan Harrison. He went unnoticed during another successful football season as their center, doing a very nice job protecting Gillis, the quarterback. He started to bang out multiple hit games left and right, usually just singles, but hard ones and he carried that all the way into the team's last game.

Then came the big game, a travel day on a Saturday morning against Ipswich. Wilmington had to go up against Erik Drown, scouted by 22 major league teams at this one game as he was clocked at about 88 MPH. His opponent was Swiza, undefeated at the time, but really in the mind of everyone else's not really tested. This was his true test. All he and the rest of the Wilmington team did was beat Drown and Ipswich, as Swiza dominated from the opening pitch to the last out, outpitching Drown as the team then knew they were a contender.

With a few regular season games left to go, it looked as if the team was going to make the state tournament. The catching department still had problems and questions as Banda was too young, but too good of a contact batter to keep out of the line-up and Meuse needed more playing time and get more of a feel for the pitchers. They both needed work defensively as well, but they were both two very hard workers and two kids who wanted to play. Banda had flashes of brilliancy with the bat, homering at WHS, and supplying a run producing bat. Meuse, on the other hand, didn't have much playing time.

The state tournament arrived. Although I said at prior to the season starting that making .500 which pretty much be a miracle for this team, they proved me and a lot of others wrong. But once the state tournament arrived, I knew that if they played the way they were capable of, they could go along way because of the depth of their pitching. Swiza was 7-0, Fugere was 2-5 and pitched better than his record indicated, the Heffernans combined to go 2-2, while sophomore Sean Quigley was 1-1, with his most impressive performance coming with the second to last regular season game against Reading.

It was then in the first game against Bishop Fenwick that players like Meuse, Harrison and Fugere all came into their own supplying big plays one after another, whether with the bat, glove or both. It was then that the overall defense came together, several big infield plays and a few nice grabs by Brian McCarthy, who was also known for his unique personality and leadership that also brought the team to the level. It was then, when a team regarded that couldn't compare or do anything close to the season before, had made it just as far as that team itself.

The next game, Fugere and Meuse delivered again, now the team was playing in the semi-finals. Swiza dominated again, but Peter Grasso was the second hero with two blasts, one good for a round tripper, while O'Donnell came through with a big clutch double to help the team advance further. It was then the team was playing for the sectional finals, and it was then when they slugged out 13 hits, including four different players having at least two hits, another true sign that this team was just that, a team.

Two days later came the Eastern Mass final game and Scanlon went to Quigley. He pitched three scoreless innings before giving up three long balls in the fourth, regardless he did very well, considering he was only a sophomore and he had about 15 innings of varsity experience under his belt. It was then that sophomore Tom Southmayd, making his second varsity start behind the plate, showed that he has a very bright future with his golden arm. It was then when McCarthy ripped two hits to end his career. And of course it was then the team lost, ending what probably could be called a bigger Cinderella Story then that of the soccer team from the fall.

This Wilmington High baseball team showed why baseball is the greatest sports game on Earth. No matter how many questions linger, or no matter what the player's reputations are, no matter how young or old the players are and no matter what the thoughts are on the head coach, the game isn't played until it actually is. Yes these kids proved me wrong, and many others. So I just want to say thanks for proving me wrong and everyone else and thanks for the memories. Congratulations to you all as each and every one of you proved that you can play the simple game with the best of them. Thanks for giving me a special few months of terrific baseball. With female sports dominating the school during this decade, the baseball team, like the soccer team, put male sports back on the map, because they didn't care what the thoughts were on them. Again like the soccer team, these two team's of Scanlon's proved that talent takes a team so far, but team chemistry takes a team even farther.

Brian McCarthy never "skipped" a beat give Wilmington a ray of hope. Sophomore catcher Tommy Southmayd followed with another safety, but then the magic ran out.

"We tried to do the same things, coming back," McCarthy said. "Today we just couldn't get it all together."

The comeback trail began right from the start, when Wilmington hosted a slightly less formidable Bishop than the mighty Stang-Fenwick. In that one the Crusaders jumped out to a 4-0 lead. But Scanlon had a plan, which was simply to get past BF starter Mike Curran. And the way to do that, he reasoned, was to make the pitcher work

McCarthy walked all four times he batted in the game, twice off Curran, the last one driving in a run, driving Curran from the game, and helping drive Wilmington on to the second round. The second walk came after the count went full and the RBI made it a 4-3 game. The 'Cats got to reliever Henry Breckinridge for three runs in the next inning.

With those walks and mostly bench time in the second round, McCarthy was hitless in his team's first three tourney games. He then went three-for-six with a pair of RBIs in the last two. His two-run single to right in the top of the third held up as the game-winning hit in the Sectional Final against Arlington Catholic.

In right, he recorded six putouts without an error for the tournament.

In the finale, we went two-for-three, both hits coming late in the game with two outs and each very nearly sparked big rallies for the 'Cats.

In the fifth against the Spartans, his double bumped Jim O'Donnell to third and set the table for Southmayd, who was a fine play from third baseman Mike Prior from driving in two runs. In the seventh, as we know, it ended, four runs short but so far ahead.

All week they had talked about the possibility of playing in Fenway Park. Of Dave DeAmato patrolling the left field of Ted Williams and Carl Yastrzemski, Swiezynski rearing back on the hill of Roger Clemens. The kinds of things ballplayers of all ages dream about.

"It felt like a dream all day," McCarthy said. "It was a great feeling."

Baseball team's offense Stang-less

FROM PG 11

Stadium in Lowell. Stang of Dartmouth, was sporting an 18-2 record, as they played a vigorous schedule, mostly against Division I Schools. After the lead-off batter Tom Osuch singled to left field to open the game, Quigley retired the next eight batters, throwing extremely well, keeping the ball down with mostly fastballs that moved in and out of the plate. Of those nine outs, four of them came on groundouts, including a pretty 1-6-3 double play to end the first, and two more came on strikeouts.

As for the bats, Wilmington struggled as well in those first three innings against Osuch who had a 7-1 record coming in as the team's ace. Wilmington also sent just nine batters through the first three innings with one getting on with a base hit, Dave DeAmato, who was quickly erased as he was thrown out stealing.

Now came the fourth inning, and the top half certainly doesn't happen too often. Osuch led things off as he took a 3-1 fastball over the left field wall for a solo homerun. The next batter, Pat Roy (he flew all the way down from Colorado) grounded out to Quigley. T.J. Jachimczyk followed as he took a 2-2 pitch deep over the left field wall for another solo homer to make it 2-0. The clean-up batter Matt Waite grounded out to third, before Kevin Oliveira ended Quigley's day as he also homered over the left field wall to make it 3-0.

"Sean did exactly what we wanted him to. He got us into the fourth inning throwing very well, we just didn't hit," Scanlon said.

This wasn't a fluke for Stang as prior to this game they had belted ten homeruns in their other four tournament games, and they were averaging close to ten runs per ball game. True, Quigley fell behind the hitters who hit the round trippers and true he gave up three homers, but in reality he combined to give up five runs in ten innings to two teams, Reading and Bishop Stang (Wilmington scored just two runs in his ten innings), who both battled for the Eastern Mass. titles in Division II and III. And he is only a sophomore.

"They hit the hell out of the ball. Once they hit the first one I thought okay let's get out of this inning and we'll get that run back, but before you knew it they smacked two more. Those three shots were croaked. They are the best ball club we played all season," Scanlon said.

Now with the score 3-0 in the home half of the fourth, Peter Grasso got things going with a base hit to left. But he was stranded there as Osuch retired the three in order including his third and fourth strikeouts on the day.

Fugere, who came in for Quigley, gave up a lead-off single, then retired the next three, with two also on strikeouts in the top of the fifth. Wilmington was down to their last nine outs. Again their lead-off hitter, this time, Jim O'Donnell, singled to open the bottom of the fifth. After two flyouts, Brian McCarthy doubled to the left center gap to have runners at second and third for sophomore catcher Tommy Southmayd, who was making just his fifth varsity at-bat. He jumped on the first pitch and hit a sharp grounder to third that was scooped up and tossed over to first to end the inning. A few inches to left side and....?

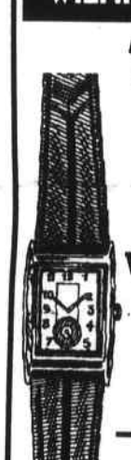

"Baseball is certainly a game of inches. If that ball gets through we are talking about a brand new game. It didn't, and that's the way it goes," Scanlon said.

Stang increased their lead to 4-0 in the sixth with Roy lead things off reaching on an error. Jachimczyk (5-for-6 in the Eastern Mass. final and state championship game including five RBI) doubled to right sending Roy to third. Waite flied out to right and Roy was awarded home with a catcher's interference call as he and Southmayd collided with the running trying to block home plate as the throw was off mark, up the third base line (Roy would've made it either way).

Trailing 4-0 in the bottom of the sixth, Wilmington started a rally as Grasso sharply singled over the shortstop's head and Tim Gillis followed that with a double, sending Grasso to third. Dave DeAmato pounced on the first pitch, flying out to right and scoring Grasso and advancing Gillis 90 feet. Osuch then retired the next two Cats hitters to get out of the big jam.

Stang added their fifth run in the seventh on a single, error and a RBI double, before Wilmington got out of it intentionally walking the number nine hitter to load the bases with no outs for Osuch, who forced a runner at home before the inning ended with a double play.

In the bottom of the seventh, with two out and no one on, McCarthy and Southmayd made things interesting with back-to-back infield singles, but the game and the superb season ended with a fly out.

White Sox and A's do battle in Major League action bottom of the sixth to earn this hard fought victory over the Burger King sponsored A's.

The White Sox, behind the strong arm of K. Mike Kelley, who went the distance striking out 13, while allowing only four hits, played an inspired game.

The key Sox hits came from Matt Brander (two RBI), Kelley, Jordan, Weiner and E. David Celli. Mark Giordano made the fielding play of the game with a diving catch behind second base, snuffing out an A's rally. Sean Wilson's daring baserunning triggered the White Sox as he stole two consecutive bases.

Jon Stark pitched a very strong three innings, striking out seven and allowed only two hits. Ken Luongo came in relief of Stark, pitched a strong two innings before tiring in the sixth.

The A's offense was supplied by the big bats of Luongo (two hits, two rbis), Matt Hogg, and Pelletier. The A's outfield defense and the defensive catching of Derek Montalto was outstanding.

Senior League Baseball

Dodgers 6 Marlins 5

In a close game that saw the potential tying run approaching home as the game ended, the Reading Cooperative Dodgers beat the Marlins 6-5.

In the game, which was a pitching battle between David Trueira of the Dodgers (16 k's) and Joe Ranno of the Marlins (11 k's) for five solid innings, was broken open in the sixth inning by the Dodgers who scored four runs. The offense was provided by Jason Youngclaus, Jason Barrett, David Hanley and David Trueira.

The Marlins refused to surrender and mounted a rally in the seventh inning. They scored two runs with the key hit being provided by Joe Ranno. Also playing well for the Marlins were Andy Campbell, Andy Hackett and Josh Hiltz.

The Dodgers and Wilmington Little League would like to thank the Reading Cooperative Bank for their support this year and look forward to their support in the coming years.

Farm League Softball

Major League Softball

Angels vs Brewers

Teh Leduc Card & Gift Shop and the Townsend Welding Brewers played to a 13-13 tie Tuesday evening at the high school field.

The Brewers took advantage of bases on balls, aggressive base running, and base hits by Julie Martel and Christina Foley to take an early lead. Lauren Rappoli played great defense at shortstop, making many super plays to keep the Angels at bay.

Megan Godding, Kirsten Frizol, Jessie Nolan, Rachel Pierce and Ashley Poirier each contributed two hits to help the Angels gain the lead.

The Brewers tied the game in the top of the last inning as Meredith Bransfield and Katie Martel scored their second runs of the game.

Lauren Rappoli pitched a scoreless last inning as she snared a hard liner by Katie Riley and doubled up the runner at first to preserve the tie.

Mariners 13 Angels 4

The JJT Engineering Mariners defeated the Angels, sponsored by Leduc Card & Gift in a game complete with several "divine interventions" of play. The Angels' Katie Flynn was not in a gift giving mood this day as she held the undefeated Mariners in check for three innings with solid pitching and defense.

The Mariners, with the aid of a second "rain delay" were able to overcome the Angels one run lead in the fourth with six unanswered runs. Playing their steady game for the Mariners were Maria Sorrentino, Christina Tocci, Danielle Hodgson and Beth Ananian. Caitlin Harrington, Meagan Godding and Jackie Souza contributed solid games for the Angels.

Mariners 16 Marlins 0

The JJT Engineering Mariners defeated the Town Market Marlins. Behind the shutout pitching of Heather Rogers and the power hitting of Shannon Fahey and Corey Losue, the Mariners overpowered the Marlins.

Contributing a strong performance for the Mariners were Allison Audette, Beth Ananian, Jen Comer and Kayla Humes.

Playing a solid game for the Marlins were Jessica Ham, Lauren Cushing, Jaclyn Moran and Catherine Sheerin.

Brewers 10 Mariners 7

On a beautiful, sunny day for softball the Townsend Welding Brewers delivered the JJT Engineering Mariners their first loss of the season. The Brewers came out running early and often scoring all their runs in the first three innings. Led by the fast legs of Danielle Roux and Lani Peni along with the power hitting of Julie Martel the Brewers opened their early lead.

The Mariners came back to close the gap to three, but were denied any late inning comeback by the strong relief pitching of the Brewers' Lauren Rapoli. Also contributing to the Brewers victory were Katie Martel, Nicky Tobin, Lauren Christerson and Jillian Guzinski.

Mariners 25 Brewers 15

The JJT Engineering Mariners defeated the Townsend Welding Brewers. After a wild first inning featuring a dozen runs, both teams settled down to play a steady paced game.

Leading the Mariners on offense were newcomers Mallory DeRosa, Kayle Humes, Julie McIsaac, Stephanie Steeves and Allison Audette.

The Brewers running and rebel style offense were not enough on this day to overcome the Mariners' relentless attack. Lani Cabal Peni, Mary Ann Hery, Lauren Rappoli, Julie Martel and Lauren McGonagle led the Brewers with solid all around play.

Mariners 17 Angels 0

In a game featuring experience and youth, the veteran JJT Engineering Mariners defeated the up and coming Angels, sponsored by Leduc Card & Gift. Andrea Gomez, making her pitching debut for the Mariners displayed excellent control to keep the Angels in check.

The Mariners continued their trademark early scoring with table setters Jackie Rdieout and Heather Rodgers setting the pace for the power hitting Shannon Fahey who contributed a double and two home runs. Stephanie Steeves, a first year player for the Mariners looked right at home playing her first game at catcher.

The Angels' Jackie Grady displayed some power of her own with two solid triples and a flawless game on first base. Also playing a solid game for the Angels were Emily Olson, Ashley Poirer, and Kayla Fraser.

Mariners 20 Cubs 0

The JJT Engineering Mariners defeated the Cubs, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Wilmington.

The young Rotary Cubs played a spirited game but were no match for the Mariners on this day. Playing a strong game for the Cubs were Elyse Gamardella, Jenna Ciarmella, Erin Cahill, Meagan Hand, Marjorie Taylor and Kristine Barry.

Leading the way for the Mariners were Rachel See with three hits and Corey Iosue with two, including a geme breaking home run.

Mariners 22 Marlins 8

On a fall like day in May the JJT Engineering Mariners defeated the Town Market Marlins.

The Marlins continue to blend the consistent pitching and fielding of Heather Rogers with timely hitting and defense to overcome their opponents. Shannon Fahey and Corey Iosue delivered the big blows for the Mariners with grandslams in the second and fourth innings. The highlight hit of the game belonged to the Marlins power hitter and Mariners' nemesis, Gina Ranno who smacked a line drive, three-run homer in the fourth.

Jen Comer and Maria Sorrentino contributed outstanding defensive plays for the Mariners. Stephanie Gable, Meghan Coyne, Alyssa Bibeau and Jaclyn Moran played a solid game for the Marlins.

The Mariners and Marlins would like to thank their sponsors, JJT Engineering and Town Market both of Wilmington for their continued support of Wilmington Little League.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM

Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations for the Town of Wilmington, Middlesex County, Massachusetts

AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY:

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed modified base (1 % annual chance) flood elevations shown on your community's preliminary Revised Flood Insurance Rate Map. These base flood elevations are the basis for the floodplain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). The proposed base flood elevations modify the base flood elevations shown on your community's presently effective Flood Insurance Rate Map.

DATES:

The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in the community.

ADDRESSES:

Preliminary Revised Flood Insurance Rate Maps showing the proposed modified base flood elevations and their delineation are available for review at the Wilmington Town Hall, 121 Glen Road, Wilmington, Massachusetts.

Send comments to:
Mr. Michael A. Caira
Wilmington Town Manager

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:
Matthew B. Miller, P.E., Chief
Hazards Study Branch
Mitigation Directorate
Federal Emergency Management Agency
Washington, DC 20472
(202) 646-3561

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of modified base flood elevations, in accordance with Section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added Section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing an Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448)), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR 67.4(a).

These elevations, together with the floodplain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents.

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605(b), the Administrator, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A flood elevation determination under Section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accord with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribe how high to build the floodplain and do not prohibit development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposes no new requirement; of itself it has no economic impact.

Proposed base flood elevations along flood sources studied in detail are shown on the Preliminary Revised Flood Insurance Rate Map. Lessees and owners of real property in the Town of Wilmington, are encouraged to review these maps and related materials at the address cited above. The proposed base flood elevations are as follows:

Range of Base Flood Elevations
#Depth in feet above ground
*Elevation in Feet (NGVD)

Source of Flooding	Existing	Modified
Lubber's Brook	*93	*92
	None	*103

TIPS FOR A GREAT CLOSING

The closing table is the ideal place to sign papers, trade keys, and drink a toast to the new homeowners. Sometimes that setting is filled with tension and pressure as each side tries to work out important details of the transaction at the last minute.

How can you help make your closing a relaxed and happy one? First, try to get the details worked out ahead of time. There may be a few unresolved issues, such as repairs that were not completed, a disappearing dinning room chandelier or a pre- or post-closing occupancy agreement. The atmosphere dosen't need to become adversarial, and minor upsets should not threaten the entire transaction. If you anticipate a problem, no matter how minor it may seem, be sure to communicate the situation to your Realtor in advance, so that it can be handled before it has a chance to escalate.

Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain

OCALA, FL -- An ingredient derived from hot peppers that decreases inflammation in racehorse's legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx® and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.

ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. © 1997 PGC

Importance of Higher Education

by CORI LEWIS

As I finish high school, I stand at a metaphoric crossroads. I am at a turning point, one in which I have many options, many roads over which I can travel. A few of these are easy paths. I can take a left onto "Live at home and work for my Dad" Avenue or I could turn right onto "Stay at my current job and work hard in order to become a manager" Street, but for some reason, these paths seem to circle around "Unchanging and uniformed life"-ville. A few side streets bring me to a different place but for the most part, I stay in the same town, in the same notions and ideas.

I have another option though, straight ahead, lies a bridge. It leads to a different place, one in which informed and knowledgeable people make important decisions concerning the conditions of the world. The residents of "Empowered"- town know where they are headed. Confident in their abilities and successful in their choices, these people affect and shape society through their awareness and intelligence. The bridge that connects this town is not easy to cross; it is long and tedious, with exorbitant tolls. But the benefits it offers to those who are diligent enough to embark upon it are priceless.

I feel that higher education serves as the bridge to a dynamic and progressive existence. Education at the college or university level is the vehicle through which many students accomplish their goals. Employing the tools of skill, determination, critical thinking, and creativity, every scholar can build himself a brighter future.

A slice of nostalgia is still alive in North Reading

The Last Dairy Queen

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

For many of those living in this area there are fond memories of visits to the local Dairy Queen. Many will remember those in Stoneham, Wakefield, and Woburn. Happy days and happy times at a place where you went with friends, met friend or made new friends.

There is now only one Dairy Queen left in this area, on Route 28 in North Reading and this is the story of one families drive at keeping a piece of memorabilia ongoing and prosperous.

Ralph and Joanne Ventrillo have been in the business together since the first year they were married in 1966.

That was the year Ralph bought his first store in Woburn, which he sold after his lease ran out in 1978. The pair, with the help of their three daughters, Suzanne, Jennifer and Melissa then moved to their present location on Route 28 in North Reading.

In fact Ralph comes from a Dairy Queen family.

He developed his love for the Dairy Queen brand during a summer vacation from high school when Ralph went north to South Portland, Maine to help a cousin that owned one of the then familiar butterscotch and red ice cream stands in that community.

Now his sister and brother in-law own the shop in Exeter, New Hampshire, where another sister helps with the work.

When the Ventrillos started out at the Woburn store they remember that almost every nearby community had a Dairy Queen.

"When we got into it," Ralph said, "there were stores in Arlington, Woburn, Stoneham, Revere, Medford, North Andover, Lynnfield and Wilmington."

He estimates that the North Reading store has been in business since 1954 or '55.

The Ventrillo's Woburn shop was just a soft serve stand when they bought it. The couple converted it into a Dairy Queen.

"Dairy Queen overall has been very good to us," Ralph said

THE FIRST DAIRY Queen may have been in Wakefield but this one on Route 28, North Reading is one of the few left in the area now.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Loneliness is a curse of the modern world. A person can be lonely in a crowd because, many of us are caught up in our individual lives. We, must therefore, make friends with those who need our companionship.

A man who lived in a house by the side of the road, took out a beautiful old Windsor Chair almost every summer morning and placed it on his front lawn. He then got another chair and sat down in it. He didn't have to wait very long to hear the screeching

Winchester remembers Bette

"The leading lady among Hollywood's former Winchester residents is Bette Davis, who lived in Winchester and attended the Wyman School for about six or seven years," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The daughter of Harlow and Ruth Davis, Bette Davis was born on April 5, 1908 in Lowell.

"Though in her autobiography, 'The Lonely Life,' Davis dated her family's move to Winchester before the birth of sister Barbara in October 1909, Winchester records show that the family was in Somerville in April 1911 and moved to Winchester between then and April 1912.

"At the time of his marriage, Harlow Davis was a law student. By the time of the move to Winchester, he was a graduate of Harvard Law School and a practicing attorney.

"The house the they lived in was numbered 148 Cambridge St., but was not the house there today, which was built on the site of the Davis home in 1941.

"Davis' recorded memories of Winchester were memories of her childhood. She remembered being a maid of honor in her aunt's wedding in the Cambridge Street house when 'Japanese lanterns hung from the maple trees transforming our lawn into a fairyland.'

"She recalled Christmases and 'Those biting, cold, white days when Bobby and I would slide down the hill behind the house on our backsides, without our sleds. The swing near the kitchen which I strained to help me touch the sky. It got even by tripping me up and knocking the wind out of me. The kitchen, shiny and busy and expectant with custards and fruit pies. The flowers in the woods nearby and our vegetable garden in the summer. The fresh colors and tastes of that garden! The first Cadillac Daddy brought home. The family outings on Sundays....I was always happiest when I was outdoors and wandering through the woods.' [The Lonely Life, p.24]

"In 1918 they divorced. Ruth Davis and her daughters left Winchester. Harlow Davis moved briefly to 8 Hancock St., but then also left town.

"Ten years later Bette Davis went on stage with the Provincetown Players and two years beyond that was in Hollywood (1930). She won Academy Awards in 1935 for 'Dangerous' and in 1938 for 'Jezebel.'

"Twice since leaving, Davis is known to have had contact with Winchester. In 1937 when the Winchester Theatre opened, she sent a congratulatory telegram.

"In Nov. 1943 Davis participated in a special radio broadcast from Winchester that climaxed a drive to aid Greater Boston Community Fund agencies. The broadcast was given from the stage of Town Hall, where several Winchester groups contributed to the show. Davis spoke from a studio in Hollywood...."

Stoneham embraces laptops

"The wave of the future has hit the Stoneham Police as the department embarks on bringing high technology to the streets," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"The town went on-line with computers in cruisers to aid the day-to-day patrol of the community. According to Police Chief Eugene Passaro, the state has put the 'finishing touches' on a whole new system that will allow immediate access to information for patrol officers and detectives.

"Officer Joseph Denehy, the project's systems manager, is excited about getting the computers up and running, following weeks of waiting for the state to rectify system problems. He described these 'glitches' as 'pretty standard' for any new system.

"The benefit of the new technology is the immediacy of information which can be obtained. Rather than a patrol officer contacting a busy dispatch center by radio and then awaiting response, information, via this system, can be accessed directly by the officer. The types of information obtained will allow a police officer to know who and what is about to be dealt with, even in a routine stop.

"The system, which will be hooked into the National Crime Information Center to allow access to out-of-state records, will make car-to-car communication possible as well as car-to-base messaging. Denehy described the system as a 'silent dispatch' and a bonus for officer safety...."

Burlington goes for the gold

"A new concept in post-acute services has emerged in Burlington and in New England," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The formation of Aurum, a network of independently owned, post-acute care facilities have joined forces to offer their services collective in the health care marketplace.

"Among them is a major health care provider in this area, Salter Health Care Group of Winchester.

"Aurum, says Aurum CEO Kathy Melendy, promises to pull together the previously fragmented area of post-acute services by offering insurance providers health care referral professionals and consumers easy access to services through a centralized 800 phone number.

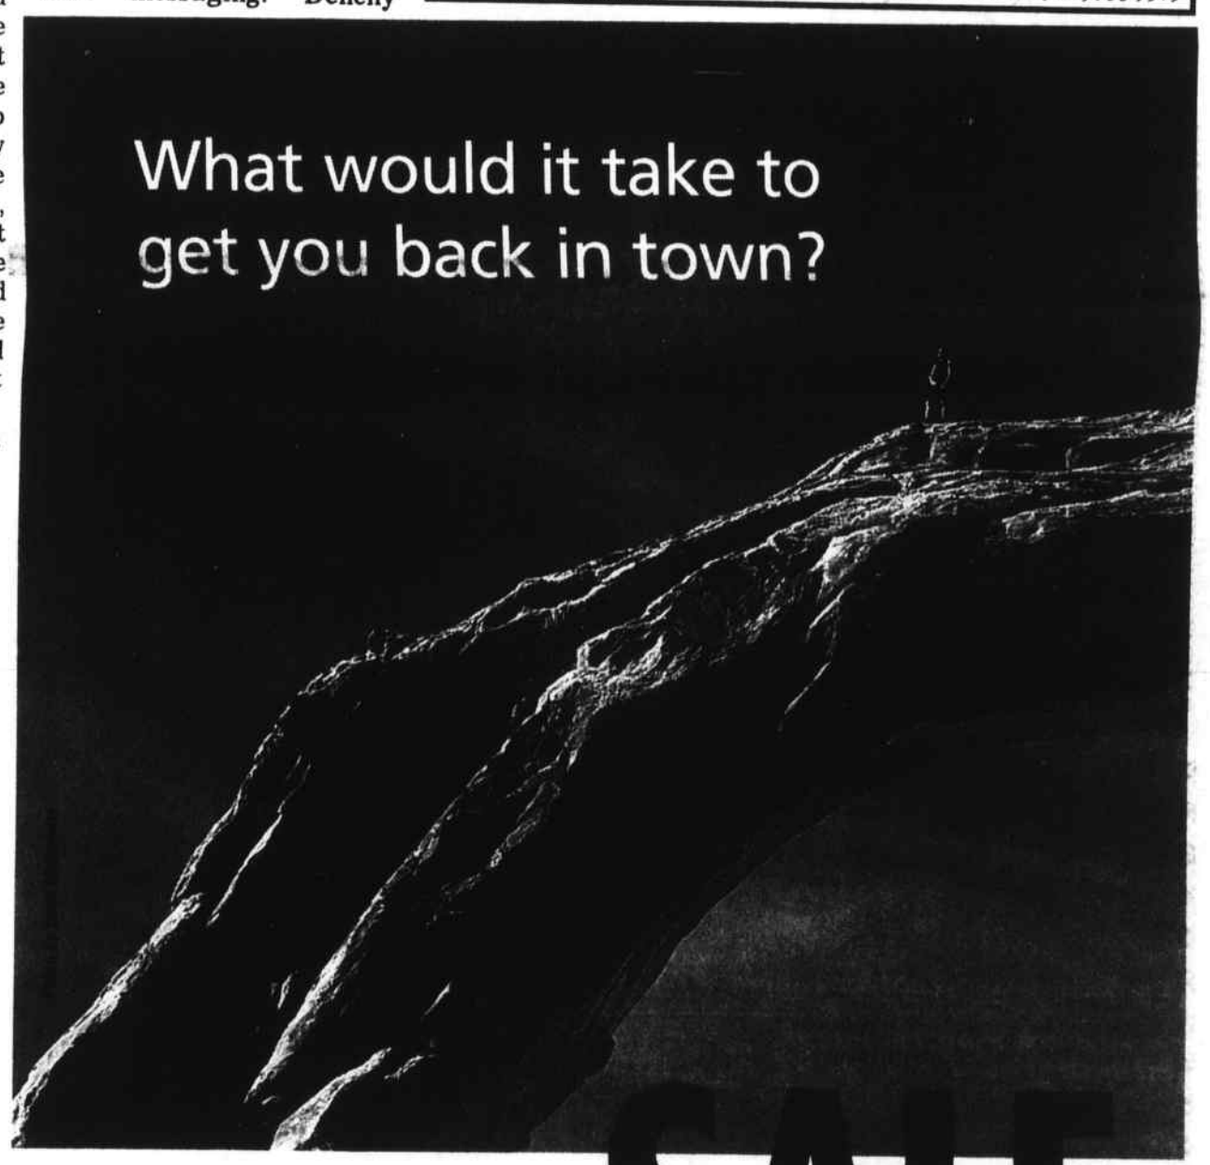

"'Through Aurum, health care professionals, insurance providers and consumers will initially have access to the full continuum of post-acute services in 46 facilities across a wide geographic region in Massachusetts,' Melendy said. 'Moreover, Aurum facilities represent the best in the industry. Their collaboration ensures that consumers, health care professionals and insurance providers are able to access appropriate post-acute services of the highest quality. Our name - Aurum - is Latin for gold, which conveys our commitment to the highest standards of our industry.'

"Based in Burlington, Aurum officials said its goal is to increase the size of the network of providers, first within Massachusetts and then to branch out in New England in the next five years...."

MIDDLESEX EAST & MIDDLESEX EAST UPDATE appearing in Daily Times - Chronicle (Reading, Woburn, Winchester, Burlington, Wakefield), Lynnfield Villager, No. Reading Transcript, Wilmington & Tewksbury Town Crier, Stoneham Independent

Dairy Queen From S-1

When asked what happened to the other shops in the area, Ralph said, "It is a tough business, you have to be willing to put the time in."

Joanne added, "It is not easy to get good help anymore."

As if to prove their point they noted that Melissa, who just graduated from North Reading High School, now comes to the shop everyday to help open for business. Suzanne and Jennifer both work weekends.

The Ventrillos have 12 people on the schedule at this point and three more were scheduled to start this week. The store is open seven days per-week from the beginning of March until the end of October.

Joanne said, "We need about 18 people and five more serving windows."

Ralph said, "One by one the old-timers passed away or retired. No one wanted to take over their businesses."

One of the reasons is the high price of making a profit. According to Ralph, the prices of materials go up every year.

He recalled that a small cone was 25¢ when he started and now it is $1.25.

Of that price, five percent goes for state and federal taxes, plus the cost of property and real estate taxes. However, business is booming.

According to Ralph, the business is up 32 percent over last year and that is a jump from the usual eight percent increase in business that the store normally experiences.

Ralph recalled that when he bought the store, the previous owner, came up from Florida to run it and lived in the stores upstairs storage section. It only had one serving window and the walk-in freezer was in the parking lot.

The Ventrillos put in a second window two years ago, and enclosed the walk-in freezer while increasing the size of the walk-in cooler.

The freezer is used to store cakes and novelties that are made fresh on the premises.

The Ventrillos open their shop for business at 11:30 a.m. However, they are on hand far before that.

Ralph explained that the Dairy Queen ice cream comes in a five pound bag that is kept refrigerated in their new walk-in chest. Once it is delivered it never leaves the chest as it is pumped directly to the two machines at the front of the store.

Those machines are sanitized on a daily basis with a cleaner approved by the Board of Health.

As to how the customers appreciate the attention that the family pays to the product, Ralph said that on one foggy night he thought he would have to send some of his help home early. However, that did not take place and the lines were all over the parking lot.

The Ventrillos thought of making the store a Dairy Queen Brazier with hamburgers and hotdogs. However, the North Reading Board of Health took such a long time making a decision that it was discovered they were doing quite well with just the ice cream products.

At 11:30 a.m. on a rainy Wednesday, as this interview was taking place two people were waiting to be served. North Reading Middle School Teacher Kathleen Vaillencourt was one of them.

Vaillencourt had just finished her last day of school and was celebrating her retirement with a Blizzard, a soft-serve ice cream with fruits or cookies or other stuffings mixed in. She was also stopping by to say good-bye to Mellissa, who she remembered as a student.

Ralph said that his most popular products are still the soft-serve cones but noted that the Blizzard "is taking over the business."

The soft serve comes in three different flavors, vanilla, coffee and chocolate. However, you can also get Mistys, DQ Treat Pizzas, Sundae Waffle Cones, and other novelty items to start your own memories of the Dairy Queen.

For many the nostalgia of the Dairy Queen's is still very vivid.

Many people remember the Stoneham store, which is now a bank, and others remember the Greenwood, Wakefield site.

Wakefield resident Judi Brown was a regular at the Greenwood store.

"I just loved the ice cream," she said. "It reminded me of the cream at the top of a milk bottle."

Publisher and Woburn resident Richard Haggerty had fond memories of the Dairy Queen in Woburn's south end.

"I remember the thick coffee frappes," Haggerty said. "I tried to put on weight for football by drinking a lot of frappes."

However, he also remembered traveling to Stoneham to meet kids from other towns.

There are several generations of people who will drive by the North Reading store and reminisce back to another day and another time. A smile will come to their face as they think of their favorite menu item , or friends they may have gone with or maybe a night when the police told them to move on and not hang around.

Happy memories now reduced to one lone store in North Reading. Hopefully it will survive to stir memories of yet another generation of young people.

BY PAUL FEELY

The Spinners returned to Lowell Sunday night following a second straight loss to the New Jersey Cardinals at Skylands Park in August, New Jersey. The Spinners split the four game weekend series with the Cardinals and finished their season-opening six game road trip with two wins and four losses.

Manager Dick Berardino returns for his second season at Lowell. A thirty year veteran of the Red Sox Organization, Berardino has managed fifteen Boston clubs in the New York Penn League over that period.

Third baseman Keith Hart, a third round pick of the Red Sox, and free agent signee Paul McDaniels have gotten off to quick starts offensively for the Spinners. Starting pitchers Mike Mowell, a recent high school graduate from East Hartford, Connecticut, and Tom Miller, beginning his second season with Spinners, have both had impressive early season performances.

Regardless of on-field performances over the upcoming eight game homestand, the star of the game awards will undoubtedly go to Lowell's brand new LeLacheur Park set for its inaugural game on Monday night. As summarized on the OpEd pages in last Sunday's Lowell Sun, "Its Perfect". Area fans' reactions to the attractive and comfortable new stadium will provide an interesting sidebar story throughout the season. While the rookie league Spinners' games have been enthusiastically attended during their first two seasons when the played across town at the converted high school field, Alumni Stadium, a surge of support is expected at the new park. Coverage in some of the local papers over the last few months indicates that perhaps the city aspires to attract clubs from the higher level minor leagues if the fans in the region demonstrate a strong appetite for the minor league game.

The Vermont Expos, a Montreal affiliate, provide the opening night opposition. Reflecting the exodus of most every high priced player from the Montreal team over the past several years, the Vermont roster includes six first round draft choices from the past two amateur drafts. The Montreal club used its first round picks and sandwich round compensation choices in 1997 to assemble an array of high school stars. These young players, introduced to professional baseball in the lower level Florida Gulf Coast League last summer, provide a strong nucleus for this year's Vermont team.

The Expo's opened their season with three straight losses, but have bounced back over the weekend to win three in a row and come into Lowell at .500. They should be strong contenders in the New York -Penn League's McNamara Division throughout the summer.

Following the opening two game series the Spinners host the Batavia, NY Muckdogs for four games, Wednesday through Saturday evenings at 7PM and conclude their first homestand of the season with a two game rematch against the New Jersey Cardinals, Sunday at 5PM and Monday at 7PM.

Batavia, a Philadelphia Phillies affiliate, brings a strong roster featuring University of Texas football star Ricky Williams. Williams finished fifth in the Heisman Trophy ballot following the 1997 collegiate football season and returns to the Longhorns this fall. He is considered the leading Heisman candidate entering next season and also has a chance to become the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Division One career leader in touchdowns scored and rushing yardage.

The Phillies drafted first overall in the 1998 Amateur Draft earlier in June, selecting University of Miami slugger Pat Burrell. Burrell has yet to reach agreement on a contract with the Phillies, but is expected to join the Muckdogs roster upon signing.

The Red Sox are still in negotiations with their first round selection, Adam Everett, a shortstop from the University of South Carolina. Everett should end up on the Spinners roster before the summer is over.

ADOPT-A-CAT MONTH IN JUNE

If you are thinking of adding a friendly feline to your home, June is the right month! Across the country, animal shelters sponsor Adopt-A-Cat month every June to garner attention for the millions of homeless cats and kittens in need of care. The Animal Rescue League of Boston invites the public to visit one of its shelters in June and consider adding a furry friend to the family.

Cats of all shapes, colors and sizes are available and looking for happy homes. Those interested in kittens will find the largest selection during this time of year.

The Animal Rescue League recommends considering one's lifestyle before choosing between a kitten and an older cat. Kittens require more care at first, including training, and may not be best for families with young children who may inadvertently injure the small animal. Most older cats found in shelters are already trained, accustomed to children, still playful, and have long healthy lives ahead of them.

For more information, please contact the Animal Rescue League of Boston at 617-426-9170.

MOVIE REVIEWS BY PAUL FEELY

"The X-Files"...Trust no one!

MOVIE: "THE X-FILES: FIGHT THE FUTURE"
GRADE: **

Review: The tag line for the show may be "Trust No One", but trust me when I tell you this: both diehard fans and first-time viewers will not be disappointed by this big screen version of the hit television series.

Producer/Creator Chris Carter successfully brings the characters of Fox Mulder (David Duchovny) and Dana Scully (Gillian Anderson) to Hollywood, along with the regular bunch of supporting players from the series, including fan favorites the Lone Gunmen and Cigarette Smoking Man.

The plotline is a little outrageous, centering on a conspiracy which, according to the prologue, has been going on since 35,000 B.C., but the witty dialogue and interaction between Mulder and Scully that has helped make the television show such a hit also carries the film over its slight shortcomings.

Longtime fans of the show will be thrown a few tidbits to carry them over until next season, while casual moviegoers will be able to follow along with the plot quite easily. Moviegoers on both sides of the "Should Mulder and Scully kiss?" debate will also be happily satisfied, as one pivotal scene is carried out in a very clever way.

Rated: PG-13 (minor language, violence)

Length: 121 minutes.

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "CAN'T HARDLY WAIT"
GRADE: **

Review: This movie is a typical teen comedy with some above-average performances by up-and-coming young actors and actresses, but it contains a poor performance from its most recognizable star, Jennifer Love Hewitt of "Party of Five" fame.

It's not entirely her fault, though, as the script doesn't give her much to work with. She plays Amanda, the most popular senior in the Class of 1998 at Huntington High School, and she has just been dumped by the football jock Big Man On Campus, played by Peter Facinelli. An average teenager, Preston Myers, who has had a crush on her since the first day of school freshman year decides that he will finally tell her how he feels at the graduation day party everyone in school is attending, and thus you have the plotline for this one.

Many of the supporting characters are interesting, and while the film does have its funny moments, there just isn't much to it when you look at it as a whole.

Length: 96 minutes

MOVIE: "THE TRUMAN SHOW"
GRADE: **

Review: Because Jim Carrey gets paid millions to make films these days, it's tough to call this a breakthrough role, but the man known for his comedic ability pulls off a dramatic role here with ease.

Many Carrey fans were disappointed with "The Cable Guy", the last time Carrey tried to break out of his funny-guy mold and played a dark and twisted man. They'll likely be surprised with this performance as Truman Burbank, an innocent, sweet guy who slowly realizes that there is something different about his life: the world truly does revolve around him, because his entire existence has been staged, unbeknownst to him, for the world's first 24-hour a day drama. Millions have watched him literally grow up on television, and have followed his every move on the world's largest soundstage (visible from space) which is made up to look like a fictional town.

Carrey is excellent, as you can literally watch him becoming more aware of what's going on around him simply by reading his facial expressions, from wide-eyed innocence to hurt and confusion. Other little things like the posters in a travel agents' office (designed to encourage him not to travel), and the performance of Ed Harris as the creator of the show and Truman's world are gems as well.

Rated: PG (some mature themes)

Length: 101 minutes

MOVIE: "GODZILLA"
GRADE: **

Review: According to the ad campaign for this one, size does matter, but this movie may have gotten too big for its britches.

Yes, the big lizard has been updated using current computer wizardry, and the effects are the main reason to see this movie. But beyond that the plotline is pretty weak (then again, you can't exactly call a 20-story reptile attacking the Big Apple Shakespeare, now can you), and stars Matthew Broderick, Jean Reno, and Maria Parillo are little more than window dressing as the mayhem ensues.

Fans of the Godzilla series will be disappointed by this entry, which, though bigger, certainly isn't better than those campy monster movies of the 1970's.

of brakes as a car stopped.

The motorist would then walk up to the old gentleman and sit down beside him in the Windsor Chair. After conversing a while, the stranger would ask the inevitable question, "I'm an antique collector, is this chair for sale?" The old man smiled and replied, "sir, it is not for sale, it's the only reason people will stop and chat with me and I am desperately lonely."

Folks, if you don't have a Windsor Chair but have an old treadle type Singer Sewing Machine or, an old fashioned wooden ice box or, a spinning wheel, place it on your front lawn (if you are lonely) you'll be surprised how many people would be happy to stop and chat with you because, they would love to buy the antique item. Maybe I can get my Aunt Nora to sit on my front lawn?

George Guyette said to me, "Woodchipper, no wonder you have such beautiful tomato, Squash and bean plants in your garden, I saw a scarecrow there that would scare the dickens out of birds, beetles and gypsy moths."

George doesn't know it but, that wasn't a scarecrow in my garden, it was Kathy tying up the tomato plants with the neckties my Aunt Nora gave me for Christmas.

Fr. Burns had a great day on the golf course yesterday. He only fell out of the golf cart twice.

Former Governor Mario Cuomo of New York, declined being nominated for President of the United States. He also refused to be considered for the Supreme Court Judgeship. It makes one wonder if he's holding out for pope?

Folks, if you truly like what you are doing, you will never have to work another day in your life And if you get Paid for what you like to do, thank God. I do that after every column I write.

The French call it, "Joi de Vivre." The Italians, La Dolci Vita"' the Americans say, "Cool Man Cool." BUT, no one has the sensitivity of the Irish like Tony Stack who said to a beautiful Colleen, "come into my garden dear, I want my roses to see you."

Good news Blackie Vega, Frank Hogan and Johnny Ave made the "Centerfold of the "Hobo News."

The hotel clerk told Blackie Vega, "There are only two rooms available, one with a tub and the other a shower." "What's the difference?" Blackie asked. "with the shower," the clerk replied, "you have to STAND UP!"

I asked Frank Hudson, "what was Father's sermon about this morning?" Frank replied, "Sin." "What did he say about it?" Frank said, "he's against it."

The apprentice barber nicked George Guyettes' face more than a couple of times. "Shall I wrap your head with a towel sir?" "Yes, please do," George replied, "and I'll carry it home under my arm."

Many people are sensitive about their weight. Kathy doesn't want anyone to know how much she weighs. She wants to rem n ENORMOUS.

My Aunt Nora called Kathy up and said, "we must plan another trip to New York some weekend, I'm running out of hotel towels. The last time they went to New York, Kathy got pinched in the Astor Bar.

Everyone told my cousin Mario that it couldn't be done. He tried it and proved them right.

Folks If you want to get nowhere-follow the cord.

During the depression of the 1930's we were poor BUT we didn't know it - Because everyone on my street was in the same boat without oars or a rudder to steer it by.

But with God's help and President Roosevelt's WPA we survived.

Teachers honored in Wilmington

"...Over 100 members of the Wilmington Teachers Association gathered in the main ballroom of the Hiliview Country Club to honor 15 teachers who have completed 25 years of service to the children of the Wilmington Public Schools," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"The teachers honored include: Florence Athanasia, Alice Beretini, Christine Bucuvalas, John Fahey, Joan Feeney, Anne Field, Thomas Kane, Kimberly Maggio, Janet Merlino, Ann Mulak, Judith Nowak, Janice Puleo, Susan Smith, James Tildsley, Lorraine Watters.

"Special honors were given to the four teachers attending who are retiring in June. This special group included: Joe Gilligan, Florine Bakke, Carol Folkins, Barbara Beaucher.

"Joe Gilligan also did a wonderful job as master of ceremonies for the afternoon festivities."

Students shielded in Lynnfield

"The Lynnfield Public Schools must initiate a plan to protect students from inappropriate and obscene material on the Internet in order to qualify for a new state grant," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"Lynnfield will receive $15 per student (approximately $28,000) this summer to promote the effective use of educational technology. The funds must be devoted to teacher training and professional development in technology.

"A condition of the grant will require Director of Curriculum and Technology Peter Manoogian to develop the policy to keep students from accessing inappropriate websites.

"Although no such plan is in place, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard Palermo said the issue hasn't yet posed a problem."

Shaughnessy welcomed in Woburn

"After almost five decades at the high school, Assistant Principal Paul Sweeney leaves some big shoes to fill," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"A familiar face, though not one currently at the high school, will take on the challenge when Sweeney retires at the end of the year.

"Brian Shaughnessy, former Ward 4 alderman and long-time Melrose High School teacher has been tapped for the job....

"'He's well qualified and I'm looking forward to him joining our staff,' said Batchelder....

"Shaughnessy was selected from a pool of candidates by a 15-member search committee made up of school council members, with Assistant Principal Leona Shanholtz and School Committee representative Mary Contalonis.

"The committee then made its recommendation to the superintendent.

"Under education reform, the principal makes the recommendation, but it is the superintendent who appoints. The School Committee does not have a formal role in the process under the law, except in terms of the budget, but it has been concluded that the search committee process works best when there is a School Committee representative who can speak first-hand about the process if the committee has any questions...."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. We welcome student writing.

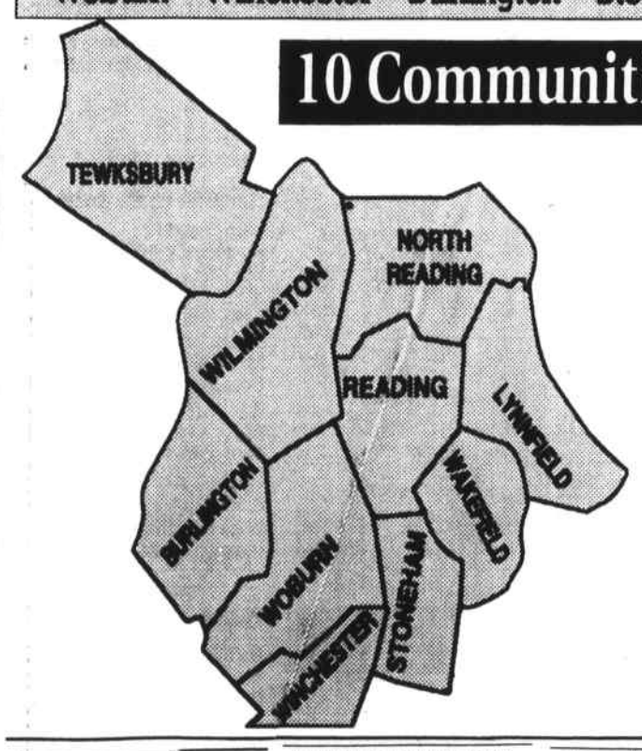

Self esteem and skill group for boys ages 9 through 12

Boston Regional Medical Center offers a therapy/support group to help boys ages 9 to 12 develop self-esteem. Group discussion focuses on ways they can enhance their social skills, develop better control over their behavior, express feelings in appropriate ways and develop friendships.

The group meets on Mondays from 3:30 to 4:20 pm beginning the end of June and runs for eight to ten weeks.

Health insurance, including many HMOs, may cover the cost of the group. For more information on how to register, call the BRMC Help Line at 1-800-979-6364.

A Picturebook's inspiration in North Reading

THIS CLASSIC CAPE has three bedrooms and many extra enhancements. It is situated on a private, tree studded lot.

Surrounded by trimmed hedges and blossoming flowers sits a beautiful White Cape Cod home in North Reading. The tree-canopied yard is an eye pleaser as you drive up to this perfect family home.

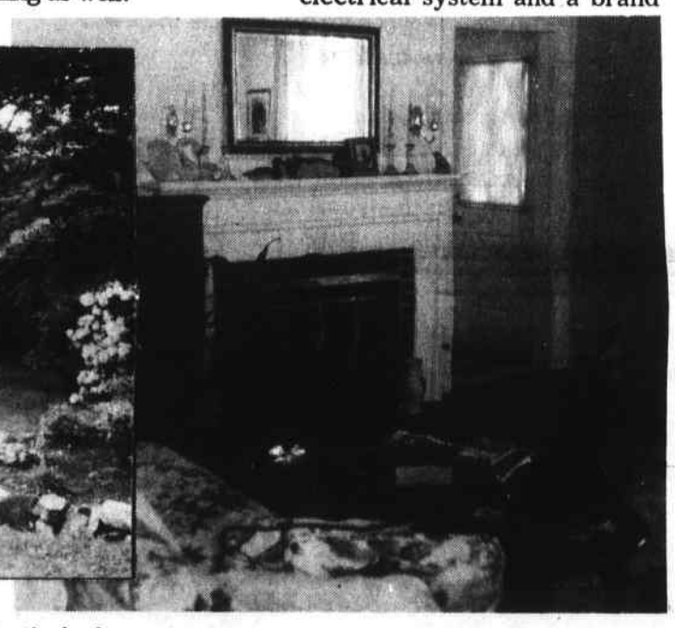

Prepare to be pleasantly surprised as you walk through the front door. Greeted by glistening hardwood floors and charming appeal, the fireplaced living room is ideal for cozy winter evenings. Stay cool during the lazy, hot days of summer because this room is also air conditioned.

The kitchen offers loads of cabinet space and a bright, inviting appearance. Off the kitchen is a super family room with a touch of country feel. This sun-kissed room overlooks the splendid backyard and is perfect for entertaining guests.

In addition, off the kitchen is a breezeway that egresses to the backyard or to the driveway.

Also on this first floor is a 13x10 bedroom with wall to wall carpeting over hardwood floors. This room stays cool with air conditioning as well.

Next to the bedroom is a wonderful den/office for those who take their work home with them. The full bath on this floor is cheery and bright with white and blue decor, a built in medicine cabinet and pedestal sink.

Venturing upstairs, you won't help but notice the plush carpeting. The white spindle staircase leads you to two bedrooms. Both bedrooms offer skylights for daytime sunshine and nighttime star gazing. There is a half bath upstairs as well offering shutter doors and country garden embellishments.

Need more space? Downstairs offers a finished 12x19 room as well as a separate workstation for the handyman fanatic. In addition to all of these fine features, this home has a brand new roof, updated electrical system and a brand new septic system.

This home is privately nestled on a 17,000 square foot lot yet convenient to all shops and the highway. The fenced in yard and brick patio is awaiting summer barbecues with friends, neighbors and children who love to run and play.

This home is listed and marketed by Marsha Weiss, CRS, GRI with RE/MAX Top Achievers, Inc. It is modestly priced at $209,900.

For your private showing or for more details, call Marsha at 781-944-6060.

Build a charming garden path

There's more to building a garden walk than laying cement and stone.

Paths should follow a natural route. Look around your yard and see which areas have been worn with foot traffic. Also, where do you want the path to lead? Do you want to showcase a vibrant flower bed, a stately aging oak, or a gently rolling brook?

It's also important to take both the terrain and landscape into consideration when choosing the right materials for the job. For example, because of poor drainage, a low-lying area may be better suited for a gravel walk than a brick path. Water that is allowed to pool on a walk eventually will weaken it.

The solution is to design your walk with a slope so the water drains to one side and away from the house. A slope of one inch for every four to eight feet of length should work well.

Two basic types of walks include soft gravel or mulch paths and hard surfaced paths, according to Chris Carter, of The Home Depot.

"Setting a path directly on the ground is a pretty simple task," Carter said. "You will want to put in some kind of edging to keep the surface in place and we recommend putting down a lining of landscape fabric to inhibit weeds. All that's left is to spread the topping and replenish it occasionally."

If you prefer a harder surface, you will want something like concrete, brick or stone. For a brick or stone walk, there are two choices: a sand bed or a mortar bed.

A sand bed is forgiving. It begins with a layer of gravel for drainage. You put sand on top as a foundation for the surface. Sand is easy to rake into place and easy to work into a flat, firm bed. Bricks, stones or pavers go on top, edging lines the walk, and the whole surface is locked in place. Bricks are the traditional surface, but concrete pavers are a good choice, too. They come in a variety of shapes that fit together easily to make intricate patterns. Many have built-in spacers-on the bottom edge where you won't see them -- so you get nice, even joints.

There's more to mortared work than meets the eye -- a concrete pad underneath support the surface and prevents it from cracking. Without that pad, your walk would be in trouble as the ground shifted during the freeze/thaw cycle or during heavy rain. The mortar makes it rigid, and without the right base, it will crack. The right base is concrete.

Making a concrete bed is a bit easier than making a walk, and making a walk is a bit easier than it looks. But don't fool yourself about it either -- making a walk is a big project, and good, hard work.

Your Garden - Your Home

Summertime safety at home

Now that summer is here, and everyone begins to enjoy the outdoor activities associated with the warmer months ahead, the nonprofit National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) offers the following tips to make this a fun and safe season:

Grilling

Keep barbecue grills far away from anything that can burn - your home, cars, dry vegetation, etc. Stay with the grill when lighted, and keep children and pets well away from the area. Barbecue grills must never be used inside the home or garage; in addition to the fire hazard, indoor grilling can easily cause carbon monoxide poisoning.

For charcoal grills, only use starter fluids designed for barbecue grills, applying a limited amount before lighting the fire. If the fire is too slow, rekindle with dry kindling and add more charcoal if necessary. Before discarding coals, soak with water and leave the grill away from combustible items until completely cool. For gas grills, always store the gas cylinder outside away from structures, and check frequently for any leaks in connections. Always follow the manufacturer's instructions and if needed, have the grill repaired by a trained professional.

Gasoline Safety

Use gasoline as a motor fuel only. Keep it outside the home, preferably in a locked, detached shed, and store just enough to power your gasoline-fueled equipment. Keep gasoline up high, inside a clearly marked container that's labeled and approved for gasoline storage. Make sure gasoline and all flammable liquids are well away from any heat source, spark or flame.

To transport gasoline in an automobile to and from the filling station, place a sealed, approved container in the trunk with the trunk lid propped open and drive directly to the fueling site. Take a direct route back home and store it properly.

Fun on the 4th

Wilmington, USA

Celebrates the 4th of July for Six Days

Complete schedule presented for the 4th of July Committee by the Wilmington Kiwanis Club

The Kiwanis Playground at Silver Lake is reality. Years of planning came together last Thursday, June 18 as club members, town workers and volunteers put it all together in one day! During the next few years the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington plans to expand this playground. Your support will be appreciated.

To the people of Wilmington,

On behalf of the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington, I would like to offer my sincere thank-you to the residents of Wilmington, the business community and countless volunteers who donate their time, money and effort to help us as a club continue our efforts to make life a little bit better for those who need help.

1. Scholarships to graduating high school seniors
2. Dinners and social gatherings for the elderly
3. Bicycle Safety Rodeo
4. Christmas Adopt-a-family program
5. Alliance for Wilmington Youth
6. Wilmington Youth Center
7. Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Center
8. Sponsor of the Fourth of July Committee and new this year:

9. The BRAND NEW KIWANIS PLAYGROUND AT SILVER LAKE

This supplement is prepared by the Kiwanis Club of Wilmington. It is presented with pride to the town. The advertisers in this supplement, through their generosity support the Kiwanis in their many charitable works. Please support them.

To learn more or to join the club speak to any Kiwanian on the Common during the week of the 4th! Membership is open to an man or woman in town who is interested in helping the community in a quiet, rewarding way. Call 658-2346 (The Town Crier) for more information.

On the front of this supplement is a photo of our new playground which was installed last week. Without the help of the community and especially the Rotary Club this would not be possible. The list of persons and organizations who helped goes on and on but includes these notables: The Town Building Dept., the D.P.W., Recreation Dept., Selectmen and Town Manager.

I would like to invite any man or woman living or working in Wilmington to become a member of our club. The only criteria is that you have a desire to help others and spend some time with a great bunch of people. Although I personally work out of town, please drop in to D & D Lock for further information on joining or see any one of us on the common during Wilmington's week long 4th of July!

With gratitude

The Fourth of July

"...this great anniversary festival ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of the country to the other, from this time forever more."
—John Adams to Abigail Adams
